

was said, in the search for funds. The attorneys approached to take the case demand advance fees.

KILLER BUT COWARD

A disorganized whirlwind. No sense of morality. Quick of wit, but faulty of judgment. A daredevil, but perhaps cowardly under an acid test. A thoughtful woman would never fall for him. His soul feeds upon his vanity alone.

Such is Marty Durkin, as exposed to the searching scrutiny of Dr. James M. Fitzgerald, character analyst.

"Vanity, self love, a thin conscience, these things first strike us in this man's makeup," Dr. Fitzgerald concluded.

And with a picture of Chicago's most spectacular gunman of the moment before him, Dr. Fitzgerald touched lightly with his pencil here and there as he proceeded to apply his theories.

"Notice the depression—the downward slant—just above the brow? Well, that's the seat of all our hero's present trouble," Dr. Fitzgerald declared.

"At this point lie a man's sense of reflection, of veneration, but we notice little such development in Durkin's case. Maybe if he had been carefully schooled as a child he would have escaped his present predicament, despite this handicap."

Wild By Nature

"But at best it would have been difficult to have restrained him," continued the doctor, his pencil traveling to the back of his subject's head.

In short, Durkin is by nature what I would call a wild man. Notice the long line from the tip of the strong chin to the back of the unusually developed base of the head. This denotes powerful motive action, a driving force that might have been for good had it not been for that unlucky depression in the seat of the restraining faculties.

"But here we have a man literally burned loose—a wild tiger that knows but to devour. He has the staring, bold eye of an untamed animal that's but waiting a chance to gnash his way to freedom. To kill to escape means nothing whatever to him."

Smart to Kill

"He even thinks it's smart to kill a copper. That, to him, is merely one way of outsmarting the copper."

The doctor touched another seeming protuberance at the back of the gunman's head.

"This tells us plainly why our young man likes to dress immaculately, likes to charm ladies; why, in fact, he's never happy without a woman at his elbow, at his beck and call."

"For here," explained the doctor, "we see an abundant development of the love of display, of self love. To be the flash of the town is his highest ambition."

"But with a man Marty would never be popular long. That uncontrollable ego of his would get him into arguments mighty quick. He is essentially not a man's man."

"According to Dr. Fitzgerald's belief, this very ego of Durkin's would lead him to use the last cartridge upon himself, rather than send it into his enemy and die fighting."

Dr. Fitzgerald said that in several qualities, notably that of egotism, Durkin is strongly reminiscent of Gerald Chapman, another notorious auto thief, recently sentenced to hang for murder in Connecticut.

HE MEETS IRMA

Martin Durkin was put in the death cell at the county jail yesterday.

Not to await the hangman's noose—

Chicago Daily Tribune

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Tel. LXXXV, Saturday, Jan. 23, No. 20.

Entered as second class matter June 8, 1903.

Published daily at Tribune Square, Chicago.

MAIL SUBSCRIPTION PRICES

Mail subscriptions—Five in Ill. (outside of Chicago), Ind., Iowa, Mo., Wis.—$5.00

with Sunday, one year, $12.00

Outside of Ill., Ind., Iowa, Mo., Wis.—$6.00

with Sunday, one year, $13.00

Canada, Mexico, and foreign—$10.00 per year.

Single copies, 10 cents.

Entered as second class matter June 8, 1903.

Published daily at Tribune Square, Chicago.

MAIL SUBSCRIPTION PRICES

Mail subscriptions—Five in Ill. (outside of Chicago), Ind., Iowa, Mo., Wis.—$5.00

with Sunday, one year, $12.00

Outside of Ill., Ind., Iowa, Mo., Wis.—$6.00

with Sunday, one year, $13.00

Canada, Mexico, and

foreign—$10.00 per year.

Single copies, 10 cents.

Entered as second class matter June 8, 1903.

Published daily at Tribune Square, Chicago.

MAIL SUBSCRIPTION PRICES

Mail subscriptions—Five in Ill. (outside of Chicago), Ind., Iowa, Mo., Wis.—$5.00

with Sunday, one year, $12.00

Outside of Ill., Ind., Iowa, Mo., Wis.—$6.00

with Sunday, one year, $13.00

Canada, Mexico, and

foreign—$10.00 per year.

Single copies, 10 cents.

Entered as second class matter June 8, 1903.

Published daily at Tribune Square, Chicago.

MAIL SUBSCRIPTION PRICES

Mail subscriptions—Five in Ill. (outside of Chicago), Ind., Iowa, Mo., Wis.—$5.00

THE KILLER'S VANITY

Cranial and facial characteristics of Durkin show the typical high spots of one type of criminal, according to analysts. The above picture diagram reveals to the layman the character reading of the expert student of faces.

NEW FORM OF INSULIN GIVES FURTHER HOPES

Completion of experiments with insulin, which have resulted in its production as a chemically pure crystal, was announced last night by Dr. John J. Abel, professor of pharmacology in the Johns Hopkins medical school, in an address before the Chicago Institute of Medicine.

Production of the drug, it was said, will now be possible in an absolutely pure form. As formerly made it was in the form of a crude solution derived from the pancreas glands of pigs. Its chemical form, as distinct from the organic material with which it is mixed, has not been known before.

It is expected that the new discovery will lead to further knowledge of chemicals which may act as a preventive of diabetes. Insulin, so far, has not been used as a curative for diabetes, but rather as a neutralizing agent which merely checks progress of the disease.

ANNA (ILL.) LAWYER DIES

Anna, Ill., Jan. 23.—(Special.)—James Lind, 60 one of the leading attorneys of southern Illinois, is dead in St. Louis, Mo. He had served as state's attorney of Union county.

WEEK-END ICE CARNIVAL, LAKE GENEVA, WIS.

A Mid-Winter Sports and Ice Carnival will be held at Lake Geneva Jan. 22, 23, and 24. Program includes all forms of outdoor winter sports. Many noted amateurs will compete. Special train service. For full particulars apply Ticket Office, Chicago & North Western Ry., 148 S. Clark St., Tel. Dearborn 2223; 248 W. Jackson St., Tel. Dearborn 2111; Madison St. Terminal, Tel. Dearborn 2060.—Adv.

They embraced," the warden said.

"Yes, they kissed a number of times. No tears . . . both happy and laughing."

Durkin joked with her . . . said he wanted her to stay in Chicago until he got out . . . not long, he figured. That's about all."

Durkin's jailmates along the row, including five men awaiting execution, gave him the fishy eye yesterday. He met them for the first time in the bullpen.

And he won the chicken, slid to him under the gate of cell 400.

Reporters had to depend on the warden for what happened when Durkin and Irma visited.

"They embraced," the warden said.

"Yes, they kissed a number of times. No tears . . . both happy and laughing."

Durkin joked with her . . . said he wanted her to stay in Chicago until he got out . . . not long, he figured. That's about all."

Durkin's jailmates along the row, including five men awaiting execution, gave him the fishy eye yesterday. He met them for the first time in the bullpen.

And he won the chicken, slid to him under the gate of cell 400.

Reporters had to depend on the warden for what happened when Durkin and Irma visited.

"They embraced," the warden said.

"Yes, they kissed a number of times. No tears . . . both happy and laughing."

Durkin joked with her . . . said he wanted her to stay in Chicago until he got out . . . not long, he figured. That's about all."

Durkin's jailmates along the row, including five men awaiting execution, gave him the fishy eye yesterday. He met them for the first time in the bullpen.

And he won the chicken, slid to him under the gate of cell 400.

Reporters had to depend on the warden for what happened when Durkin and Irma visited.

"They embraced," the warden said.

"Yes, they kissed a number of times. No tears . . . both happy and laughing."

Durkin joked with her . . . said he wanted her to stay in Chicago until he got out . . . not long, he figured. That's about all."

Durkin's jailmates along the row, including five men awaiting execution, gave him the fishy eye yesterday. He met them for the first time in the bullpen.

And he won the chicken, slid to him under the gate of cell 400.

Reporters had to depend on the warden for what happened when Durkin and Irma visited.

"They embraced," the warden said.

"Yes, they kissed a number of times. No tears . . . both happy and laughing."

Durkin joked with her . . . said he wanted her to stay in Chicago until he got out . . . not long, he figured. That's about all."

Durkin's jailmates along the row, including five men awaiting execution, gave him the fishy eye yesterday. He met them for the first time in the bullpen.

And he won the chicken, slid to him under the gate of cell 400.

Reporters had to depend on the warden for what happened when Durkin and Irma visited.

"They embraced," the warden said.

"Yes, they kissed a number of times. No tears . . . both happy and laughing."

Durkin joked with her . . . said he wanted her to stay in Chicago until he got out . . . not long, he figured. That's about all."

Durkin's jailmates along the row, including five men awaiting execution, gave him the fishy eye yesterday. He met them for the first time in the bullpen.

And he won the chicken, slid to him under the gate of cell 400.

Reporters had to depend on the warden for what happened when Durkin and Irma visited.

"They embraced," the warden said.

"Yes, they kissed a number of times. No tears . . . both happy and laughing."

Durkin joked with her . . . said he wanted her to stay in Chicago until he got out . . . not long, he figured. That's about all."

Durkin's jailmates along the row, including five men awaiting execution, gave him the fishy eye yesterday. He met them for the first time in the bullpen.

And he won the chicken, slid to him under the gate of cell 400.

Reporters had to depend on the warden for what happened when Durkin and Irma visited.

"They embraced," the warden said.

"Yes, they kissed a number of times. No tears . . . both happy and laughing."

Durkin joked with her . . . said he wanted her to stay in Chicago until he got out . . . not long, he figured. That's about all."

Durkin's jailmates along the row, including five men awaiting execution, gave him the fishy eye yesterday. He met them for the first time in the bullpen.

And he won the chicken, slid to him under the gate of cell 400.

Reporters had to depend on the warden for what happened when Durkin and Irma visited.

"They embraced," the warden said.

"Yes, they kissed a number of times. No tears . . . both happy and laughing."

Durkin joked with her . . . said he wanted her to stay in Chicago until he got out . . . not long, he figured. That's about all."

Durkin's jailmates along the row, including five men awaiting execution, gave him the fishy eye yesterday. He met them for the first time in the bullpen.

And he won the chicken, slid to him under the gate of cell 400.

Reporters had to depend on the warden for what happened when Durkin and Irma visited.

"They embraced," the warden said.

"Yes, they kissed a number of times. No tears . . . both happy and laughing."

Durkin joked with her . . . said he wanted her to stay in Chicago until he got out . . . not long, he figured. That's about all."

Durkin's jailmates along the row, including five men awaiting execution, gave him the fishy eye yesterday. He met them for the first time in the bullpen.

And he won the chicken, slid to him under the gate of cell 400.

Reporters had to depend on the warden for what happened when Durkin and Irma visited.

"They embraced," the warden said.

"Yes, they kissed a number of times. No tears . . . both happy and laughing."

Durkin joked with her . . . said he wanted her to stay in Chicago until he got out . . . not long, he figured. That's about all."

By Betty Wales

This is the "Bullet frock," but the bullet buttons from which it takes its name are purely ornamental, making this an ideal hurry-dressing model.

Special for Saturday
Georgette Frocks

Special $39.75

These frocks are made of heavy, excellent quality georgette. They present the newest spring feature: the apron cut in one piece with the frock—the double jabot—the removable, short back cape—new fullness at the hem line. Colors: Palm green, chental blue, bois de rose, and beige.

Betty Wales Shops

65-67 E. MADISON ST. and WILSON AVE. at SHERIDAN ROAD

200 New Spring Sample DRESSES
in Crepe de Chine
ALL 16 SIZES
$18.50

If you are fortunate enough to wear size 15 here is your opportunity of securing a sale sample at wholesale price. Nowhere in Chicago can you duplicate these values. Every style. Every new color. Blue, Ceranium, Leopard, Mephisto, Orchid, Bisque, Bois de Rose, Love Bird Green, and Chantrelle.

SAMPLE CLOAK & SUIT SHOP
436 So. State St.
2nd FLOOR AMERICAN BLDG.

THIS SALE IS GETTING BETTER ALL THE TIME Finer suits—finer overcoats—even blues have been added

$65 $75 $85 $90

SUITS-OVERCOATS

$50⁵⁰

BLUE
SUITS-OVERCOATS

$50⁵⁰

Our famous long wearing blue worsted overcoats have been added, so have blue suits with 1 or 2 trousers. Diamond weave blues, diagonals, herringbones—blues by the thousands at $50⁵⁰

ECONOMY SALE 3rd FL. tremendous reductions

$35 $40 $45

SUITS-OVERCOATS

$26⁵⁰

Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes in all groups—sizes for everybody

MAURICE L. ROTHSCHILD

State at Jackson

MINNEAPOLIS

CHICAGO

ST. PAUL

STATE BUILDS A HANGING CA
AGAINST DUR

Betty Andrews Tells to Crowe Aids

(Picture on back) Action was begun towards presenting to a jury sufficient to obtain this verdict.
"We, the jury, find the de Martin J. Durkin, guilty of of Edw. C. Shanahan his punishment at death."
Much time was spent in a comprehensive statement fr Andrews, Durkin's former w now his foe, and regarded a man of the utmost importan state's case. Betty went over as much of everything on Martin Durkin as she could re
Durkin Lacks Money

The state was wasting Durkin was. The state was progress. Durkin was in the full discussing with lawyers able adding to raise sufficient to hire them to defend him.
Assistant State's Attorney Shanahan, a veteran of all the past cases that have passed the state's attorney's office election of Robert E. Crowe, signed the task of planning debatable act of evidence agai kill.

Knowing that if Durkin obtain the counsel he desired put up a stiff fight for his plea of self-defense, Prosecu
Shanahan set forth to destroy the
He is to devote his time, ene ability to the duty of show jury that Durkin knew possi definitely when he killed Shanahan was an offic law.

Refused Bribe, Shan
If Mr. Shanahan succeeds, since yesterday indicated he says he will be able to show Shanahan, who was an agent of the State department of Justice, when Shanahan refused to Durkin's insinuation that money enough to buy immu arrest Durkin killed him with punction.

In the strategic assignme the prosecutors Mr. Shanahan expected to shatter an expe of self-defense by Durkin to of Police Sergeant Harry Gr will be done, the state's la serve, through witnesses, wh of Durkin's threat to kill the doe officer to recognize him to arrest him—Gray being after Shanahan's death.

Killed Like a Killer

From Durkin's own story stand convicted, the prosecu vers now believe. Certainly Andrews' story they anticipa microboration to picture Du what they claim he was: A automobile thief like the rat ner with no thought of the Afornite

As Quint

STATE BUILDS A HANGING CASE AGAINST DURKIN

Betty Andrews Tells Story to Crowe Aids.

(Pictures on back page.)

Action was begun yesterday towards presenting to a jury evidence sufficient to obtain this verdict:

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Martin J. Durkin, guilty of the murder of Edwin C. Shanahan—and we do so with a heavy heart."

Much time was spent in taking a comprehensive statement from Betty Andrews, Durkin's former sweetheart, now his foe, and regarded as a witness of the utmost importance to the state's case. Betty went over in detail as much of everything concerning Martin Durkin as she could remember.

Durkin Lacks Money.

The state was wasting no time. Durkin was. The state was making progress. Durkin was in the county jail discussing with lawyers his possible ability to raise sufficient money to hire them to defend him.

Assistant State's Attorney John Shanahan, a veteran of all the important cases that have passed through the state's attorney's office since the election of Robert E. Crowe, was assigned the task of planning an unassailable net of evidence against Durkin.

Knowing that if Durkin is able to obtain the counsel he desires he will put up a stiff fight for his life on a case of self-defense, Prosecutor Shanahan set forth to destroy that defense. He is to devote his time, energy, and ability to the duty of showing to a jury that Durkin knew positively and definitely when he killed Shanahan that Shanahan was an officer of the law.

Refused Bribe, Slain.

If Mr. Shanahan succeeds, as appears yesterday indicated he would, he says he will be able to show that Durkin attempted to offer a bribe to Shanahan, who was an agent of the United States department of justice, and that when Shanahan refused to listen to Durkin's insinuation that he had money enough to buy immunity from arrest Durkin killed him without compunction.

In the strategic assignments given the prosecutors Mr. Shanahan is also expected to shatter an expected plea of self-defense by Durkin to the killing of Police Sergeant Harry Gray. That will be done, the state's lawyers believe, through witnesses, who will tell of Durkin's threat to kill the first police officer to recognize him and try to arrest him—Gray being the first after Shanahan's death.

Killed Like a Killer.

From Durkin's own story he may stand convicted, the prosecution lawyers now believe. Certainly from Betty Andrews' story they anticipate enough cooperation to picture Durkin for what they claim he was: A cowardly scoundrel thief like the rest in a corner with no thought of the widows

Four Holdup Killers to Hang; Rope for Fernekes on Feb. 19

Four men were given sentences of death yesterday by judges in the Criminal courts. All four had been convicted of committing murders during robberies.

Henry J. Fernekes, the midwest bandit, and two companions lost their plea for a new trial before Judge William N. Gemmill and were sentenced to hang on Feb. 19. The other two are John Flannery and Daniel McGeoghan.

Campbell McCarthy, colored, 19 years old, recently found guilty of the murder of Christian Getzen, a watchman, was declared sane by a jury in Judge John P. McGorty's court and sentenced to hang next Friday, Jan. 29.

Convicted of Holdup Murder. Fernekes, Flannery, and McGeoghan were convicted of the murder last March of Michael Swionkowski, treasurer of the Pulaski Building and Loan society, Swionkowski was killed at 35th and Mozart streets during an attempt of the robbers to obtain $11,000 belonging to his organization which was in his possession.

"This man is the most dangerous outlaw in this community. His hand is against every decent man, woman, and child," Judge Gemmill said in passing sentence on Fernekes.

Judge's Doubts of Guilt Removed. Judge Gemmill added that at one time he entertained a doubt that the midwest had been properly identified as implicated in the Swionkowski murder.

"But now I am convinced that the jury verdict sentencing him and his companions to death was just," he said.

"Fernekes' alibi was unusual. He insisted he was strolling through the woods near Valparaiso, Ind., with his boyhood sweetheart on the day of the killing. The state's contradiction was not adequate, so I sent a man to investigate. This convinced me of Fernekes' guilt."

Fernekes' Jail Break Foiled.

On Thursday Capt. George H. Weidling, warden of the county jail, discovered and frustrated a jail break plot believed to have been hatched by Fernekes with outside aid. A saw, a file, a coil of wire and several safety razor blades were found in the prisoner's cell by the captain.

Three hours before McCarthy, the colored youth, was to have been led to the gallows on Dec. 18, his counsel filed a petition declaring he was insane. McCarthy had already been saved twice from the gallows, once to permit an appeal to the Supreme court and a second time that he might throw himself on the mercy of the governor.

and orphans of the men who wouldn't have harmed him.

State's Attorney Crowe was emphatic yesterday in his language describing Durkin. He said one of the big jobs in the present legal proceedings to bring Durkin to justice will be to disabuse the minds of the public who have as yet been unable to see the venom of Durkin's nature and the enormity of his crimes.

Two Made Widows.

"Two families left fatherless, two widows left without support for the little children, and for what?" Mr. Crowe asked. "Because they were doing their duty as honorable men, as honest men as officers of the city and of the government of this country, as the guardians of all the decent people in Chicago."

"They encountered the lowest type of—I can't call it manhood. They met Durkin. They weren't anticipating a rattlesnake. They realized Durkin was a wolf, but they weren't able to conceive that even his breath was poisonous, as well as his mind and his bullets."

"Some misguided folks seem to think Durkin is a sort of hero. Had they but met him in the dark, or in the sanctity of their homes when Durkin was a cheap burglar, they would not have sympathy for him now. Let the youth of the nation beware of the trend of thought that permits some people to hope that Durkin might cheat the law as he cheated the people who trusted him and the four women who loved him and were betrayed by him."

"That's to be one of our biggest jobs in the trial to come. Assistant State's Attorney Joseph P. Savage and Robert McMillan must do the

CRIMINAL COURT.

Campbell McCarthy, colored, adjudged sane and sentenced to hang on Jan. 29 by Judge John P. McGorty.

Henry J. Fernekes, John Flannery, and Daniel McGeoghan denied new trial and sentenced to hang on Feb. 19 by Judge William N. Gemmill.

Clinton Adams, lawless, 1 to 10 years in penitentiary, by Judge Edmund Ellis.

Julius Portuguez, robbery with gun, 10 years to life in penitentiary, by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Erwin Sandier, conspiracy to terrorize, 1 year in jail and $5,000 fine, by Judge George Fred Bush.

woods near Valparaiso, Ind., with his boyhood sweetheart on the day of the killing. The state's contradiction was not adequate, so I sent a man to investigate. This convinced me of Fernekes' guilt."

"These three men are in a predicament they brought on themselves," the judge concluded.

Fernekes' Jail Break Foiled. On Thursday Capt. George H. Weidling, warden of the county jail, discovered and frustrated a jail break plot believed to have been hatched by Fernekes with outside aid. A saw, a file, a coil of wire and several safety razor blades were found in the prisoner's cell by the captain.

Three hours before McCarthy, the colored youth, was to have been led to the gallows on Dec. 18, his counsel filed a petition declaring he was insane. McCarthy had already been saved twice from the gallows, once to permit an appeal to the Supreme court and a second time that he might throw himself on the mercy of the governor.

and orphans of the men who wouldn't have harmed him.

State's Attorney Crowe was emphatic yesterday in his language describing Durkin. He said one of the big jobs in the present legal proceedings to bring Durkin to justice will be to disabuse the minds of the public who have as yet been unable to see the venom of Durkin's nature and the enormity of his crimes.

Two Made Widows.

"Two families left fatherless, two widows left without support for the little children, and for what?" Mr. Crowe asked. "Because they were doing their duty as honorable men, as honest men as officers of the city and of the government of this country, as the guardians of all the decent people in Chicago."

"They encountered the lowest type of—I can't call it manhood. They met Durkin. They weren't anticipating a rattlesnake. They realized Durkin was a wolf, but they weren't able to conceive that even his breath was poisonous, as well as his mind and his bullets."

"Some misguided folks seem to think Durkin is a sort of hero. Had they but met him in the dark, or in the sanctity of their homes when Durkin was a cheap burglar, they would not have sympathy for him now. Let the youth of the nation beware of the trend of thought that permits some people to hope that Durkin might cheat the law as he cheated the people who trusted him and the four women who loved him and were betrayed by him."

"That's to be one of our biggest jobs in the trial to come. Assistant State's Attorney Joseph P. Savage and Robert McMillan must do the

as well as to prepare for the presentation of evidence. Durkin must be convicted in the minds of the nation as the despicable criminal he is. That is as important for our future as it is that he be convicted and hanged for these two murders."

Never Got a Divorce.

Prosecutors Savage and McMillan, as well as Mr. Shanahan, were at work. During the morning they questioned Mrs. Ruth Flebeck Durkin, legal wife of the killer. When she told them she had never obtained a divorce from Durkin they were certain his latest marriage to Miss Irma Sullivan was bigamous.

Durkin had first married Sadie Stroka of Chicago, they were told. She divorced him. Without then waiting the year required by law he married Ruth Flebeck, for whom he made life miserable by his infidelities, she related. Finally she was forced to quit him.

They were never divorced, she said.

Irma Gets a Shock.

Prosecutor Savage, after talking with the second Mrs. Durkin, broke the news to the third Mrs. Durkin that her wedding was no marriage. It was a shock to the girl from Cornell, but after recovering she said she refused to believe it and would still consider herself Durkin's wife.

Durkin had been brought into the courtroom of Judge Harry B. Miller for arraignment, but delay of a week was granted when the attorneys said they would have to be paid first before they considered themselves as Durkin's counsel. They asked that the $2,500 taken on Durkin's person be turned back to him or to his order.

TRANS-OCEANIC FLYER FOLLOWS COLUMBUS' PATH

Reaches Canaries in Hop of 876 Miles.

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Jan. 22. — [U. P.] — Commander Ramon Franco, Spanish "Columbus of the air," arrived here late this afternoon on the first leg of his venturesome journey to Buenos Aires.

Franco started from the flying field near Palos, Spain, shortly before 8 o'clock this forenoon, and completed the flight of 876 miles without mishap. In 1492 Christopher Columbus started by ship from almost the same spot on the voyage which resulted in the discovery of America.

Tells of Flight by Wireless.

Franco wirelessed the Tenerife station shortly before noon that the flight was going satisfactorily and the station sent him a report on meteorological conditions.

"Keep signaling; I hear you perfectly," Franco wirelessed back. Later the Las Palmas station was in direct communication with him, and he also talked to a passing ship.

As Franco and his associate, Lieut. Alda, made their start, the populace of the little town of Palos, in a frenzy of enthusiasm, cheered them until they were lost to view across the waters.

Hope to Make Trip in Week.

At 11:30, according to a Cadix message, they skimmed over Cadix and were ready for their spurt for the Canaries on the first leg of what they hope will not be more than a week's journey.

The route across the ocean to the Argentine capital is by way of the Canaries, Cape Verde Islands, Fernando de Noronha in mid-Atlantic, and Brazil.

Franco hopes to be the first Spaniard to complete the flight from Europe to Argentina. He has before him the record of two Portuguese colleagues, who, in 1922 made a flight from Lisbon to Brazil, and he has the opportunity to grab from Italy the laurels that country hoped to win when Casagrande set out from Buenos Aires, only to be halted before he was fairly under way.

SOUTH HALSTED WIDENING WINS BOARD APPROVAL

Improvement and widening of Halsted street from Fulton street to the south branch of the Chicago river was ordered yesterday by the board of local improvements.

Halsted from Harrison street to the river will be widened to 68 feet by taking four and a half feet from each curb, and the project will cost $500,000.

The section from Harrison street north to Fulton will be widened to a seventy foot roadway. This part of the improvement program was approved by the board some weeks ago.

AIR COLUMBUS

The map shows the route which Commander Ramon Franco, a Spanish flyer, will follow in his flight from Spain to Argentina. He started from Palos, near Cadix, at almost the same spot from which Christopher Columbus sailed in 1492 on the voyage which ended in the discovery of America. Franco reached the Canary Islands, after a hop of 876 miles, late yesterday.

WATER PURIFYING WORK PLACED IN SPRAGUE'S HANDS

Purification of the city's water supply has been transferred from the jurisdiction of the health department to the commissioner of public works, an examination of the 1926 budget of the city disclosed yesterday.

Under the new plan, A. E. Gorman, sanitary engineer, who in the past has directed the placing of chlorine in the water, will be transferred to the public works department under the jurisdiction of the commissioner, Col. A. A. Sprague.

At the north limits of Evanston the route will link with West Railroad avenue, which, in turn, will be improved to carry traffic on the west side of the railroad and electric line tracks and tie up with Main street in Wilmette. Wilmette, Kenilworth, and Glencoe village presidents agreed at the meeting to carry the route on via

Center street and the Green Bay road and so change the name of the various streets involved to "Green Bay road" so as to afford uniform markings all the way from the Illinois state line to the Evanston city limits.

To Issue Regional Map.

At the meeting yesterday the committee was authorized by D. H. Burnham, president of the association, and

Marshall E. Keig, its new chairman, to issue the general regional map

agreed on by the various county and state officials, and circulate it in all counties of the Chicago district.

James T. Vossell, United States district highway engineer for the five

middle west states, declared pavements 44 feet wide are not sufficiently wide. The regional committee will work out a standard width for Chicago zone.

At the meeting yesterday the committee was authorized by D. H. Burnham, president of the association, and

Marshall E. Keig, its new chairman,

to issue the general regional map

agreed on by the various county and state officials, and circulate it in all

counties of the Chicago district.

James T. Vossell, United States district highway engineer for the five

middle west states, declared pav-

ements 44 feet wide are not sufficiently wide. The regional committee will work out a standard width for Chicago zone.

At the meeting yesterday the committee was authorized by D. H. Burnham, president of the association, and

Marshall E. Keig, its new chairman,

to issue the general regional map

agreed on by the various county and state officials, and circulate it in all

counties of the Chicago district.

James T. Vossell, United States district highway engineer for the five

middle west states, declared pav-

ements 44 feet wide are not sufficiently wide. The regional committee will work out a standard width for Chicago zone.

At the meeting yesterday the committee was authorized by D. H. Burnham, president of the association, and

Marshall E. Keig, its new chairman,

to issue the general regional map

agreed on by the various county and state officials, and circulate it in all

counties of the Chicago district.

James T. Vossell, United States district highway engineer for the five

middle west states, declared pav-

ements 44 feet wide are not sufficiently wide. The regional committee will work out a standard width for Chicago zone.

At the meeting yesterday the committee was authorized by D. H. Burnham, president of the association, and

Marshall E. Keig, its new chairman,

to issue the general regional map

agreed on by the various county and state officials, and circulate it in all

counties of the Chicago district.

James T. Vossell, United States district highway engineer for the five

middle west states, declared pav-

ements 44 feet wide are not sufficiently wide. The regional committee will work out a standard width for Chicago zone.

At the meeting yesterday the committee was authorized by D. H. Burnham, president of the association, and

Marshall E. Keig, its new chairman,

to issue the general regional map

agreed on by the various county and state officials, and circulate it in all

counties of the Chicago district.

James T. Vossell, United States district highway engineer for the five

middle west states, declared pav-

ements 44 feet wide are not sufficiently wide. The regional committee will work out a standard width for Chicago zone.

At the meeting yesterday the committee was authorized by D. H. Burnham, president of the association, and

Marshall E. Keig, its new chairman,

to issue the general regional map

agreed on by the various county and state officials, and circulate it in all

counties of the Chicago district.

James T. Vossell, United States district highway engineer for the five

middle west states, declared pav-

ements 44 feet wide are not sufficiently wide. The regional committee will work out a standard width for Chicago zone.

At the meeting yesterday the committee was authorized by D. H. Burnham, president of the association, and

Marshall E. Keig, its new chairman,

to issue the general regional map

agreed on by the various county and state officials, and circulate it in all

counties of the Chicago district.

James T. Vossell, United States district highway engineer for the five middle west states, declared pavements

INVOKE CLOTURE RULE TO SPEED VOTE ON COURT

Motion Signed by 48; Will Come Up Monday.

(Continued from first page.)

could not agree on a date to vote on the court even if it was in June or July. But if such an agreement could not be reached, he favored displacing the world court resolution with the tax bill.

He called on Senator Curtis (Rep., Kan.), the Republican leader, and Senator Lammot to seek an agreement on a date to vote.

"If it takes action on the part of the President of the United States to move Senators," Harrison said, "I hope the President will give out a statement and tell them what to do in this matter in order that we may transact the public business, and the President is canny enough and smart enough to do it."

"The senator from Kansas does not have to go to the White House for information or instruction," Senator Curtis tartly informed his colleague.

"But the White House comes here, that is the trouble," snapped Harrison, amid laughter.

Denies Presidential Interference.
"But the White House does not come here," Curtis rejoined. "The pending measure is being handled by the friends of the measure upon the floor, and the senator from Mississippi very well knows that we have been trying to reach an agreement to fix a date to vote on it."

Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah), chairman of the finance committee, said the tax bill would be passed in time to give taxpayers the reduction on March 15. "If there is any power I can make use of to bring that about."

Moses Challenges Smoot.
Senator Moses (Rep., N. H.) challenged Smoot to move to take up the tax bill Monday and Smoot gave stepped. Then Senator King (Dem., Utah) asked Smoot bluntly whether he was "for the world court and for a vote on it at an early date." He confessed a suspicion that Smoot was not. Smoot replied that he considered early disposition of the tax bill more important.

He said he was convinced that unless cloture was applied the world court debate would go on until it was too late to pass the tax bill in time to give taxpayers the reduction on March 15.

Finally, an agreement was reached with Senator Borah for a vote on Feb. 10, debate to be limited to 40 minutes to a senator and the tax bill to be laid aside whenever any one wished to debate the court resolution. Then Benson's objection threw the whole thing into the discard.

CAPT. T. MAC ARTHUR, OAK LEAVES EDITOR, OFF TO WAR COLLEGE

Capt. Teifer MacArthur, publisher of Oak Leaves, Oak Park newspaper, will leave today for Washington to attend the war college.

Capt. MacArthur is an officer of the reserve corps assigned to the staff of the Sixth corps area.

Four staff men from the corps were ordered to the war college for special instruction in military intelligence methods.

During the world war Capt. MacArthur served in France as an officer of the intelligence service.

CAPT. TEIFER MAC ARTHUR, publisher of Oak Leaves, Oak Park newspaper, will leave today for Washington to attend the war college.

LIVING SCENE TRANSMITTED BY TELEVISOR

(Copyright: 1926: By the New York Times.)

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The international race for the perfecting of television—transmission by wire or wireless of an animated scene—has been won by Great Britain. It was reported today by the London Morning Post.

Within a few months, it was declared, a central television station may be erected.

John L. Baird, who has perfected television after years of continuous research, has been giving practical demonstrations here. When he speaks before the transmitting apparatus in his laboratory his words can be heard and the movements of his face clearly seen in another room. His lips may be seen enunciating each word, and shadows change with changing expressions.

As soon as the government's permission can be obtained, a limited number of televisions will be constructed and sold by a company already formed for the purpose. Baird declares his invention does not resemble in any way the telephotographic transmission of photographs or still pictures. The essential thing about television is a living scene viewed the instant it is taking place.

ARREST 500 IN COMMUNIST PLOT IN JUGO-SLAVIA

(Picture on back page.)

BRIGADE, Jugo Slavia, Jan. 22.—Discovery of a plot against the lives of King Alexander and his cabinet ministers is believed to be behind the sudden decision of Premier Fehlich to return from the Riviera, where he went on Jan. 10 for a lengthy stay for his health.

The police are continuing their widespread raid upon the homes of known communists and the number of persons arrested had swelled this morning to 500.

BOB JR.'S MAIDEN SENATE SPEECH ASSAILS COURT

Old Heads Attentive as He Says 'New Imperialism'

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—(Special.)—Young La Follette of Wisconsin this afternoon made his maiden speech in the United States senate, a body in which his lately deceased father made his maiden speech twenty-one years ago. The son was then a lad of nine years.

The speech of Robert the Second today was a long and closely knit argument against the entry of the United States into the world court. Among his hearers were the wife of one former president of the United States and the daughter of another—Mrs. Edith Bolling Wilson and Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, sitting almost side by side in the president's gallery.

Mrs. Wilson gave the senator notably close attention. She sat almost directly above him and when, early in his speech, he made his unrelenting reference to "the mistakes of judgment" of her husband she leaned forward in her seat and watched the young man with intent eyes. The composure with which she had been following him did not desert her.

Recalls Wilson's Attitude.

Senator La Follette, echoing a recent Tribune editorial, had been saying "What is the hurry? Why so much pressure being exerted to force a vote on this world court resolution?" When the question of the league of nations was before the senate the same kind of a false alarm was given. The patience of the public over that debate was raised by the proponents of the league as is now being raised by the proponents of this court. At that time President Wilson rebuked the senate.

"Then came the words that drew Mrs. Wilson forward:

"But President Wilson would brook no opposition. He insisted that the senate should sign the Versailles treaty, creating the league of nations, on the dotted line. He went to the country with a winning victory. I doubt if there has ever been a more striking example of mistaken judgment nor a more complete reversal of political fortune in the history of this government."

Basis of His Argument.

The text and basic proposition of Senator La Follette's speech were: "The league of nations is intertwined with the treaty of Versailles. The court is the judicial arm of the league. Peace and justice cannot flow from an instrument conceived in the spirit of the secret treaties and born in the atmosphere of greed and vengeance which dominated the treaty."

And this: "This proposed court rests squarely upon the covenant of the league of nations and the Versailles treaty. It is brought into being through article 14 of that covenant."

The speech was prodigiously long.

It would fill two newspaper pages, but throughout it the senator was unhurried and unfurried.

Holds Veterans' Attention.

Veteran leaders—Watson, Meigs, Swanson, Hiram Johnson, and even Reed the Terrible of Missouri—gave him significantly courteous attention, but if they gave him that at first for his father's sake it became evident as he proceeded that they gave it him for his own. Their verdict was that he was a clear, well ordered, careful speaker.

Twice he quoted his father, one of the passages being from the father's harrowing onslaught on the league of nations which ended with the words: "They made a league of nations to stand guard over the swag."

In the same strain the son closed his maiden speech. The passage was the father's old. Thus it ran:

"Mr. President, the fundamental cause of modern war is imperialism. To the old world's political imperialism has been added the new economic imperialism which seeks domination over the natural resources, the finances, and the trade of the world. To the greed of kings has been added the greed of plutocrats, and thus the cause of international strife and war have been multiplied."

"Oil, coal, rubber, iron, trade routes, and concessions, financial control, and banking supremacy are the prizes for which the nations are now struggling and for which their armies and navies are being maintained. This is the new imperialism. It supplants and intensifies, but it does not displace the old imperialism."

"Will the world court curb any of these forms of imperialism? Will it parcel out the oil, the coal, and the other natural resources of the world? It will not; it cannot, have any effect upon the fundamental causes of war."

M'ANDREW TODAY TO SAMPLE WHAT THE PUPILS LEARN

Supt. William McAndrew's sampling day exercises to test the output of the Chicago public schools will be held at 10 o'clock this morning in Fullerton hall at the Art Institute.

Thirty pupils, picked at random from eighth grade classes, will be seated at desks on the platform. For two hours they will be examined on all parts of the curriculum and given a series of health, memory, and general intelligence tests.

"We will endeavor to find out if our school children measure up to what is expected by their parents and the public," Mr. McAndrew said.

The audience will be composed of principals of all the public schools and a few invited guests.

SEEK KINSMEN OF AGED WOMAN DEAD IN STREET

For three days the body of a gray haired, sixty year old woman, found dead on the street with seven cents clutched in her hand, has remained unidentified in Donoghue's morgue, 2188 North California avenue.

Acting in the interests of a neighborhood Catholic organization, Mrs. Olive Darrow, 2322 Lyndale avenue, yesterday took up the task of locating relatives.

When found the aged woman wore a knitted black fascinator, a black sweater, a red blouse, and gray spats over black shoes. A pair of gold rimmed glasses were also found with the body.

ELECT OFFICERS OF DAILY NEWS; STRONG IS CHIEF

Election of officers in the newly formed syndicate which has purchased the Chicago Daily News was announced yesterday by Walter A. Strong, publisher and owner of a controlling interest in the newspaper.

The officers are Mr. Strong, president and treasurer; James I. Hough, vice president and secretary. The directors, in addition to the three men named, are Charles H. Dennis, George F. Porter, Sewall Avery, Laird Bell, Benjamin V. Becker, and Robert F. Lamont.

John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Merchants Trust company, trustee under the will of Victor F. Lawson, late owner of the Daily News, stated yesterday that all details of the transfer of ownership had been completed. The statement revealed that the group of financiers headed by Mr. Strong paid $2,000,000 less for the newspaper than another had offered. This, Mr. Mitchell said, indicated recognition "of the rights of the community in the conservation of established newspaper principles."

MAN, 60, ENDS LIFE WITH GAS.

Herman Samund, 60 years old, 1042 North Wells street, committed suicide by inhaling gas in his room last night. The Chicago streets police, who removed the body to McPherson's undertaking rooms, learned that he had been dependent over 10 years.

SALE! Men's Wool Hose

Fancy or plain—broken lots and sizes. All our finest qualities going at this sale.

Values to $3.00

$1.35

per pair

ASTARR BEST
FINE CLOTHES FOR MEN AND BOYS

Randolph and Wabash—Chicago

Autopoint

The Better Pencil—Made of Bakelite

BELL'S CLEANING FLUID WILL LEAVE A KING AT ALL DRY STAINS. 25c Large Can

MANDEL BROTHERS MEN'S SHOPS

Savings of one-fourth in our

Semi-annual sale of Manhattan

1.85 - shirts - 2.65

Others at 2.25, 2.95, 3.35,

3.65, 4.45, 5.35, and 7.45.

An extensive assortment—striped, checked, figured patterns,

solid colors, and white.

Styles with attached collars, with collars to match and neckbands.

New arrivals, specially purchased, will be added to the thousands of Manhattan shirts from our regular stocks in this sale.

Manhattan

Pajamas included in this sale. Variety of patterns and colors in cottons and flannel.

neckties.

Men's shop, first floor, Wabash.

MANDEL BROTHERS MEN'S SHOPS

Quality clothing and furnishings

Style combined with quality

A great clearance of smart winter clothes

427 men's and young men's overcoats and suits of our finer makes and fabrics taken from regular stock and radically reduced for quick clearance to

$33

Many thrifty men with a keen eye for value will take immediate advantage of this great value-giving offer.

The overcoats include big burly ulsters and smart town coats.

Fabrics that will give warmth without weight.

The suits cover an unusually wide range of styles and very distinctive patterns. A most advantageous selling, you will agree.

Second floor, Wabash.

50% of the suits have an extra pair of trousers

15th Anniversary of a world-famous institution
Pathe News

PATHE NEWS Shows First Authorized MOTION PICTURES of EX-KAISER AT DOORN!

One of the most important news films ever shown! The first motion pictures for which the former German emperor has posed since he left his throne. May be seen only in Pathe News. Ask at your favorite theatre when this remarkable film will be shown. Do not miss it.

Pathe News

SEES ALL—KNOWS ALL

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY The STORE for MEN

Fur Cap Clearance

At Prices
Sharply Scaled Down

EVERY fur cap in our assortment is included. That means caps of the finest Alaska seal and Persian lamb, as well as those of Hudson seal (dyed muskrat) and other furs.

The size range in some cases is broken. So the reductions have been made more than ordinarily severe.

FIRST FLOOR

HOUDINI "The Zanetti Mystery"

A SUPER CRIME
UNRAVELED BY THE MAGIC-MASTER

MAGAZINE SECTION TO-DAY'S EVENING AMERICAN

C. B. LIHME SU L. H. WHITING BUSINESS D

Involves Promotion of Furniture Mart

Charges by C. B. Lihme, manufacturer and noted chemist, Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the Furniture Mart Building, has been himself in control of the firm's affairs since the death of Lihme, a $10,000,000 organization, means of a block of stock from Lihme, were revealed in a suit filed in the Superior court.

Mr. Whiting issued a statement in which he denied charges in the bill and gave a version of the transaction which obtained 40,000 shares of stock as a par value of $200,000.

Some of the benefits accrued from Lihme's control of the bill. Lihme's stock to obtain voting rights in the Furniture Mart Building, which he had caused to be elected chairman of the directors at a $25,000 year. He has caused Whiting Bros. firm which he controls, to be a general agent of the corporation charge of $50,000 a year, the bill.

Charges Excessive Over.
No services of value are rendered this total of $75,000 annually to the bill. In addition, he has installed his brother, L. H. Whiting, in a position where $5,000 a year and entails a Lihme charged. The expense of maintaining the corporation of $50,000 yearly when they should be at least, according to the bill.

In 1923, Whiting conceived of erecting a sixteen story building at 886 Lake Shore drive which would house all the Chicago office play rooms of the furniture titans of the middle west under one roof. He formed the American Furniture Mart Building corporation, secured a site, and began building.

Then, according to the bill, found himself in difficulties. He asked Lihme to advance $100,000, agreeing to turn over 50,000 shares of stock. The manufacturer accepted the proposition.

Whiting denies charges. Whiting's statement denied admitted needing money. He borrowed $75,000 from Lihme $100,000 collateral, and repaid the amount within days with 7 per cent interest. Lihme charged he was the to give Whiting 10,000 shares and deposit the remainder shares as a bond so that Lihme could not be a shareholder. Whiting told him he would give him all his money if he did not declare.

When the stock was deposited, suggested, asking that it would be advisable to certificate remain in Whiting. Having implicit confidence in Whiting, Lihme consented to the suggestion, he said.

At the last directors' meeting, Lihme awoke to the fact that Whiting was a shareholder. He asked Whiting to elect a representative himself on the board, he asking for permission to use the power of the 40,000 shares as a bond.

Lihme owns 28,995 shares.

The

th

A fine

of go

the v ice cr

sents

It co

nutri

Pa

neigh

your a par

The

HA

IC

DIVISION

C. B. LIMHE SUES L. H. WHITING ON BUSINESS DEAL

Involves Promotion of the Furniture Mart.

Charges by C. B. Limhe, millionaire manufacturer and noted chemist, that Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the Boulevard Bridge bank, has established himself in control of the American Furniture Mart Building corporation, a $10,000,000 organization, by means of a block of stock obtained from Limhe, were revealed yesterday in a suit filed in the Superior court.

Mr. Whiting issued a statement last night in which he denied all the charges in the bill and gave a different version of the transaction whereby he obtained 40,000 shares of stock, which has a par value of $200,000.

Some of the benefits accruing to Whiting from his control of the corporation were outlined in the bill. Using Limhe's stock to obtain voting control, he charged, Whiting has caused himself to be elected chairman of the board of directors at a $25,000 yearly salary. He has caused Whiting Bros., Inc., a firm which he controls, to be appointed agent of the corporation at a charge of $50,000 a year, the bill states.

Charges Excessive Overhead.

No services of value are rendered for this total of $75,000 annually, according to the bill. In addition, Whiting has installed his brother, Frank S. Whiting, in a position which pays $10,000 a year and entails no work. Limhe charged. The expenses of administering the corporation are $100,000 yearly when they should be $30,000 at most, according to the bill.

In 1923, Whiting conceived the idea of erecting a sixteen story building at 444 Lake Shore drive which would house all the Chicago offices and display rooms of the furniture manufacturers of the middle west under one roof. He formed the American Furniture Mart Building corporation, purchased a site, and began building operations.

Then, according to the bill, Whiting found himself in difficulties and appealed to Limhe for financial assistance. He asked Limhe to advance him $100,000, agreeing to turn over in exchange 40,000 shares of corporation stock. The manufacturer accepted the proposition.

Whiting Denies Charges.

Whiting's statement denied this. He admitted needing money. But he said he borrowed $75,000 from Limhe, giving $100,000 collateral, and claimed he repaid the amount within fifty-five days with 7 per cent interest.

Limhe charged he was then induced to give Whiting 10,000 shares outright and deposit the remaining 40,000 shares as a bond so that gold mortgage bonds on the building might be sold. Whiting told him he would lose all his money if he did not do so, he declared.

When the stock was deposited, Whiting suggested, according to the bill, that it would be advisable to have the stock remain in Whiting's name, giving implicit confidence in the name, Limhe consented to this arrangement, he said.

At the last directors' meeting, Feb. 1, 1925, Limhe awoke to the fact, he asserted, that Whiting was using the 40,000 shares to control the board. Whiting to elect a representative for himself on the board, he asked Whiting for permission to use the voting power of the 40,000 shares and was refused.

Limhe owns 28,995 shares of stock which, in addition to the 40,000 shares in dispute and $223,000 in gold notes, makes him the largest stockholder in the corporation, according to the bill. He fears that Whiting's "extravagant mismanagement" will ruin the company and asks the court to interfere, giving him back the voting power of the disputed 40,000 shares. Limhe formerly lived at 1200 Lake Shore drive, but now is a resident of New York and Watch Hill, R. I.

WHICH IS THE WORSE?

FIND RHODE IN HOSPITAL; HIT BY TAXI IN LOOP

Rudolph E. Rhode, 64 years old, pioneer pharmacist in Chicago and owner of the Rhode pharmacy in the Republic building, 209 South State street, who was reported missing Thursday night, was found in St. Luke's hospital yesterday with injuries he received when struck by a taxicab.

Mr. Rhode was hurt at Adams and State streets. He was taken to the hospital, where he remained unconscious. His family notified police and a search was started. But physicians learned his identity from a card in his pocket.

The cab was driven by A. Schneider, 6017 North Troy street.

No automobile accidents in which deaths occurred were reported. The year's motor toll remained 51.

EXAMINE BODY IN PARK RIDGE ESTATE MYSTERY

Woman's Fortune Is Claimed by Texan.

The body of Mrs. Marie Crilly Sterling French, 77 years old, was exhumed yesterday, and a postmortem examination of her vital organs made. Coroner's Chemist McNally will make a report on the contents of the organs in a few days.

Coroner Oscar Wolff, after listening to a partial report made by Coroner Physician Jacob Goodwin, intimated that the mystery which has veiled Mrs. French's death might be cleared up with Dr. McNally's report.

Estate Left to Neighbor.

Mrs. French, known as the mystery woman of Park Ridge, died Jan. 6. She left her estate, valued at from $40,000 to $75,000, to a neighbor, Mrs. Harriet Dahlman. But so many rumors were prevalent concerning the will that the public administrator began an investigation.

Yesterday Attorney Otto W. Ullrich, representing the administrator, appeared before Probate Judge Henry Horner and obtained an order citing Edith O'Connell, executor of the estate, to disclose hidden assets. There will be a hearing on the citation next Wednesday.

Texas Claimant Appears.

W. H. Weir of Temple, Tex., is the first person to claim heirship to the estate of the mystery woman. Mr. Weir, according to a dispatch from Temple, says his father was a half brother of Mrs. French. He said his father knew of Mrs. French's eccentricities and once threatened to have an inquiry made into her sanity when he heard that she was planning to endow an asylum for birds.

Meanwhile, an inventory of the estate was carried on. Securities whose value may run as high as $40,000 were found in a vault in the Chicago Safety Deposit company. These stocks had first been valued at $20,000, so that the total value of the estate is expected to be much higher than the original estimate of $40,000.

Dedication Exercises Held for John B. Murphy School

Dedication exercises were held last night at the new John B. Murphy elementary school, 3719 North Central Park avenue. Although the building was opened last September, the gymnasium and assembly hall have just been completed. Dr. Philip H. Kreuscher, who was instrumental in having the school named after Dr. Murphy, was the principal speaker. Supt. William McAndrew was invited, but was unable to be present.

STATE ST. TO BE ONE OF WORLD'S BRIGHTEST SPOTS

Order New Light System Installed at Once.

Plans for a white way on State street from Lake to Van Buren streets that will be one of the brightest in the world were approved yesterday by John T. Miller, commissioner of gas and electricity, and construction will start at once.

The system is to be installed at a cost of $100,000 by the State Street Lighting association, of which Elmer T. Stevens of Charles A. Stevens & Bros. is president. The movement was started six years ago and the project placed before the State street merchants two years ago.

New, Brilliant Lights.

In giving an idea of the brilliance of the illumination of the new street lights Commissioner Miller said they would have an intensity 75 to 100 per cent greater than the average office light.

Seventy ornamental standards, twenty-six feet in height, will dot the street. They will be combination trolley and light poles. From each standard will beam two three foot globes, each with two 2,000 watt lamps.

Fit Standard for Loop.

Commissioner Miller announced that the posts selected would be standard for future loop systems. The Randolph street association has plans under way for a white way system and the Wabash avenue merchants are expected to follow suit shortly.

Automatic stop and go lights for auto traffic control will be put in operation in the loop a week from tomorrow.

$52,000 BATHING POOL, BOYS' CLUB GIFT, DEDICATED

A $52,000 swimming pool, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Duncan, 4413 Drexel boulevard, to the Chicago Boys' club No. 2, was dedicated last night. Charles W. Folds, the principal speaker, lauded the work of the club for its 1,100 members, saying there were no future Martin Dinkins in the crowd.

Dr. J. Hastie Odgers, superintendent of the Chicago Northern district of the Methodist Episcopal church, conducted the services. The club is located at 1725 North Orchard street.

SALM'S AFFIDAVIT SAYS MILLICENT RUSHED WEDDING

Fearing Being Forced to Marry Another.

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—An affidavit by Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten, giving in some detail his experience as the husband of Countess Millicent Rogers von Hoogstraeten, was filed in the Supreme court today.

The affidavit was in support of the count's application for an order to compel his wife, now in Palm Beach, to bring their son to New York state. He asked Justice O'Malley, who is to hear the case on Monday, to direct that the child be brought here in order that he may be baptized as a Catholic at once and brought up in that faith.

Count Salm declared that his hasty marriage to the daughter of Henry H. Rogers on Jan. 8, 1924, was due to her own wish, because, he said, she feared her parents would force her to wed "a person distasteful to her."

Wanted Plans Kept Secret.

He said she also begged him to keep their marriage plans from her father, although he realized that it would incur the anger of Mr. Rogers. He insisted that the marriage was not inspired by the fact that he had dined publicly the day before with Mrs. Grace Coffin, his former fiancée. He said his wife knew all about the previous engagement.

Count Salm said further that his wife knew he was aware that he had "no substantial vested interest in any property," and that she also knew he was unable to support her in the manner to which she had been accustomed. He said when they went abroad he accepted $4,000 from his wife, but received no other aid from her. On the other hand, he asserted, he gave her family jewels worth $30,000, which, he said, were now in the hands of her attorney, Albert Conway.

Sought to Pledge Jewels.

When they were in need of funds at one time in Europe, he asked permission of his mother to let his wife pledge the jewels and his wife refused to do so, he said. He tried to return to moving picture work to support them, he said, but his wife opposed it.

Count Salm told of his previous matrimonial venture and said his present wife knew that his first wife had remarried after he had obtained an Austrian divorce from her, that she had children by her second marriage, and that he had government permission to remarry.

He gave his family history from the Almanach De Gotha and asserted that his "social position and record of accomplishment were at least equal" to those of his wife.

STATION AGENT OF L. ROBBED.

Joseph Trebbin, 328 East 54th street, agent at South State and 330 street, was robbed of $27 and a roll of tickets valued at $25 last night by two armed colored men.

WARMER TODAY; SUBZERO WAVE ROLLS TO EAST

Relief from yesterday's below zero temperatures, which caused one death, scores of fires, and intense suffering among Chicago's poor, is promised today by the weather bureau. The forecaster is confident that the mercury will rise gradually and that tomorrow's minimum will be about 20 degrees above zero.

The cold wave, which swept from Canada into the middle west late Thursday, had overspread the east and was swinging south to the gulf coast last night.

Chicago's lowest official temperature yesterday was 5 below zero, reached at 7 a. m. Unofficial thermometers in the suburbs and outlying sections of the city registered down to 11 below.

Charity workers were kept busy aiding the destitute. Eighty calls for medical assistance were received at the office of the county agent, in addition to numerous requests for coal and food. Two branches of the Municipal lodging house sheltered 350 men last night. The United Charities handled so many cases that its resources were strained and an appeal for assistance was sent out last night to 35,000 Chicagoans.

John Patke, 65 years old, 2536 Ward street, died of exposure.

Seventy-five alarms were answered by the fire department between 6 p. m. and midnight yesterday. Nearly as many came in during the daylight hours. The total loss was put at about $200,000.

Chamber of Commerce of Greater South Side to Meet

A nominating committee to select officers for the coming year will be named at a meeting of the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce to be held Monday evening at 618 Yale avenue. Five vice presidents to represent the five major geographical divisions of the south side are to be selected in addition to the new president.

For Colds Grip, Influenza and as a Preventive

Serious illness and complications often follow an ordinary cold. Check it; use the old Reliable, Safe and Proven Remedy, "Laxative BROMO QUININE." The First and Original Cold and Grip Tablet. Proven Safe for more than a Quarter of a Century.

The box bears this signature

E. W. Brown
Price 30c.

CLEAN Milk in Standard Hood Sealed Bottles is sure to remain CLEAN

Special Values Now in Shayne's Twice-a-Year

SALE of Men's SHIRTS and Furnishings

Generous reductions make the high quality of this merchandise unusually desirable. Stock up with the finest at a great saving today.

$3.50 and $4.50 Shirts, Now

$2.85

$5 and $7 Shirts, Now

$3.85

$1.50 Neckwear, Now

$1.15

$2.50 and $3 Neckwear, Now

$1.65

$3.50 and $4 Dent's 1st Grade

South African Cape Gloves

$2.35

$5 Grade Buckskin Gloves, Now

$2.95

A Few Remaining Men's Raccoon Coats Reduced

25% Off On

HOUSE ROBES WOOL HOSIERY
All Imported Wool Mufflers Half Price

JOHN L. SHAYNE & CO.

Michigan at Randolph

The Best Food for the Least Cost

A finer appreciation of the true value of good ice cream is responsible for the well-founded knowledge among ice cream eaters that Hydrox represents the Best Food for the Least Cost. It combines purity, deliciousness and nutriment with economy.

Patronize the Hydrox agency in your neighborhood as regularly as you do your grocer or butcher. Make Hydrox a part of your daily menu.

There is a Hydrox Agency near your home

DIVISION OF NATIONAL DAIRY PRODUCTS CORPORATION

SPECIAL
This Week
Chocolate Almond between two layers of Vanilla
Ice Cream

Pure
Because Carbonated

50c
Full Quart
Brick

PICKS TEACHERS TO FILL RETIRED VETERANS' POSTS

McAndrew to Give Board Over 70 Names.

Seventy-four school teachers and principals, picked for positions to be vacated by the new emeritus service, began to lay plans today for taking up their new duties Feb. 1 when the rule goes into effect.

The list of appointments, made by Board President McAndrew yesterday, will be approved by the board of education next Wednesday. Col. Edward B. Elliott, president, said he expected few, if any objections, by the trustees.

E. C. Hinkle New Examiner.
Edgar C. Hinkle, head of the mathematics department of the Chicago Normal college, was named by Mr. McAndrew as a member of the board of examiners. He will replace William H. Campbell, one of the veterans, past president of the board.

27 Principals Included.
Seven other senior high school principals and twenty elementary school principals are included in the list of appointments. Among the former is one woman, Caroline L. Reilly, principal of the Agassiz elementary school, who becomes the new head of the McKinley high.

The changes in high school principals are as follows: AUSTIN—Wilbur H. Wright, former principal of the Phillips high, replaces George H. Rockwood, retiring. ENGLEWOOD—David M. Davidson, principal of the Gladstone (elementary), replaces James E. Armstrong, retiring. HINDBARD and elementary—James T. Kaffney, principal of the Farren (elementary), replaces Chester C. Dodge, retiring. MARSHALL and elementary—George A. Beers, principal of the Clark (elementary), replaces Louis J. Block, retiring.

McKILLY—Caroline L. Reilly, principal of the Agassiz (elementary), replaces George M. Clayberg, retiring. PARKER—Butler Laughlin, principal of the Libby (elementary), assigned. PHILLIPS—Chauncey Willard, executive secretary to Supl. McAndrew, assigned. WILSON—Albert W. Evans, principal

Proposed Taxes and Present Law

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Taxes which would be paid by persons with specified income under the senate finance committee bill, the house bill, and the present law are shown in the following table contained in the majority report submitted to the senate today from the finance committee. Both the house bill (already passed by the house) and the senate committee bill, which is now before the senate, make the maximum of recognized earned income $20,000 instead of $10,000, as the 1924 law specifies. The following table covers the case of married men with no dependents:

Net income	Tax under 1924 act	Tax under house bill	Tax under senate committee bill	Tax under present law
$4,000	7.50	7.50	7.50	7.50
5,000	12.50	12.50	12.50	12.50
6,000	17.50	17.50	17.50	17.50
7,000	22.50	22.50	22.50	22.50
8,000	27.50	27.50	27.50	27.50
9,000	32.50	32.50	32.50	32.50
10,000	37.50	37.50	37.50	37.50
11,000	42.50	42.50	42.50	42.50
12,000	47.50	47.50	47.50	47.50
13,000	52.50	52.50	52.50	52.50
14,000	57.50	57.50	57.50	57.50
15,000	62.50	62.50	62.50	62.50
16,000	67.50	67.50	67.50	67.50
17,000	72.50	72.50	72.50	72.50
18,000	77.50	77.50	77.50	77.50
19,000	82.50	82.50	82.50	82.50
20,000	87.50	87.50	87.50	87.50
21,000	92.50	92.50	92.50	92.50
22,000	97.50	97.50	97.50	97.50
23,000	102.50	102.50	102.50	102.50
24,000	107.50	107.50	107.50	107.50
25,000	112.50	112.50	112.50	112.50
26,000	117.50	117.50	117.50	117.50
27,000	122.50	122.50	122.50	122.50
28,000	127.50	127.50	127.50	127.50
29,000	132.50	132.50	132.50	132.50
30,000	137.50	137.50	137.50	137.50
31,000	142.50	142.50	142.50	142.50
32,000	147.50	147.50	147.50	147.50
33,000	152.50	152.50	152.50	152.50
34,000	157.50	157.50	157.50	157.50
35,000	162.50	162.50	162.50	162.50
36,000	167.50	167.50	167.50	167.50
37,000	172.50	172.50	172.50	172.50
38,000	177.50	177.50	177.50	177.50
39,000	182.50	182.50	182.50	182.50
40,000	187.50	187.50	187.50	187.50
41,000	192.50	192.50	192.50	192.50
42,000	197.50	197.50	197.50	197.50
43,000	202.50	202.50	202.50	202.50
44,000	207.50	207.50	207.50	207.50
45,000	212.50	212.50	212.50	212.50
46,000	217.50	217.50	217.50	217.50
47,000	222.50	222.50	222.50	222.50
48,000	227.50	227.50	227.50	227.50
49,000	232.50	232.50	232.50	232.50
50,000	237.50	237.50	237.50	237.50
51,000	242.50	242.50	242.50	242.50
52,000	247.50	247.50	247.50	247.50
53,000	252.50	252.50	252.50	252.50
54,000	257.50	257.50	257.50	257.50
55,000	262.50	262.50	262.50	262.50
56,000	267.50	267.50	267.50	267.50
57,000	272.50	272.50	272.50	272.50
58,000	277.50	277.50	277.50	277.50
59,000	282.50	282.50	282.50	282.50
60,000	287.50	287.50	287.50	287.50
61,000	292.50	292.50	292.50	292.50
62,000	297.50	297.50	297.50	297.50
63,000	302.50	302.50	302.50	302.50
64,000	307.50	307.50	307.50	307.50
65,000	312.50	312.50	312.50	312.50
66,000	317.50	317.50	317.50	317.50
67,000	322.50	322.50	322.50	322.50
68,000	327.50	327.50	327.50	327.50
69,000	332.50	332.50	332.50	332.50
70,000	337.50	337.50	337.50	337.50
71,000	342.50	342.50	342.50	342.50
72,000	347.50	347.50	347.50	347.50
73,000	352.50	352.50	352.50	352.50
74,000	357.50	357.50	357.50	357.50
75,000	362.50	362.50	362.50	362.50
76,000	367.50	367.50	367.50	367.50
77,000	372.50	372.50	372.50	372.50
78,000	377.50	377.50	377.50	377.50
79,000	382.50	382.50	382.50	382.50
80,000	387.50	387.50	387.50	387.50
81,000	392.50	392.50	392.50	392.50
82,000	397.50	397.50	397.50	397.50
83,000	402.50	402.50	402.50	402.50
84,000	407.50	407.50	407.50	407.50
85,000	412.50	412.50	412.50	412.50
86,000	417.50	417.50	417.50	417.50
87,000	422.50	422.50	422.50	422.50
88,000	427.50	427.50	427.50	427.50
89,000	432.50	432.50	432.50	432.50
90,000	437.50	437.50	437.50	437.50
91,000	442.50	442.50	442.50	442.50
92,000	447.50	447.50	447.50	447.50
93,000	452.50	452.50	452.50	452.50
94,000	457.50	457.50	457.50	457.50
95,000	462.50	462.50	462.50	462.50
96,000	467.50	467.50	467.50	467.50
97,000	472.50	472.50	472.50	472.50
98,000	477.50	477.50	477.50	477.50
99,000	482.50	482.50	482.50	482.50
100,000	487.50	487.50	487.50	487.50

BUSINESS TO BE STIMULATED BY REDUCED TAXES

Senate Committee Sees Helpful Results.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Business will be stimulated under the reduced taxes of the pending revenue bill, the majority report of the senate finance committee, submitted to the senate today, asserts. The report, which was signed by the ten Republican members of the committee, was presented by Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah), the chairman.

"The committee was unanimous for the 20 per cent maximum surtax rate," says the report. "That, with the 10 per cent normal rate, requires a contribution to the government of one-fourth of all amounts in excess of $100,000 net taxable income. Such taxes have been excessively high for the seven years past. The committee has not approached the matter from the standpoint of benefiting the extremely wealthy but from that of sound economics, with the expectation of accomplishing several desired results.

Stimulates Investments.
"To the extent that the larger incomes are relieved from excessive taxation the money must find its way into investment in business and industry with resulting benefit to the large majority of the people. Business will be stimulated and business income increase."

In explaining failure to reduce the tax on corporation earnings, it is pointed out that corporations will benefit indirectly from the substantial reduction in individual taxes of the investing public. Corporations that consistently enjoy prosperity, it is stated, can well bear the increase from 13 1/2 to 15 1/2 per cent in the corporation earnings tax in view of the relief given from burdens of the capital stock tax.

Tax Publicity Useless.

Repeal of the estate tax is urged on the theory that there will be no justification for the retention of the tax as amended by the house bill. "The house bill provides for a possible 80 per cent credit for taxes paid to any state or states in place of the 25 per cent credit provided under existing law," says the report. "The 50 per cent provision, in effect, constitutes an admission that 50 per cent of the revenue proposed from this measure is, in fact, required by the government. The application of the 25 per cent provision, together with the cost to the government of collecting the remaining 20 per cent does not justify the retention of the tax."

FAKE DRY AGENTS RAID AND ROB EVANSTON HOME

Seven men, pretending to be prohibition agents, raided the home of Edward J. Ehrhardt, 2509 Noyes street, Evanston, last night. After locking Mrs. Ehrhardt and an 11-year-old niece in a bedroom, they ransacked the house and departed. Their total loot was $15. Mrs. Ehrhardt and the child, Virginia Buck, went to the front door in response to a knock. One of the band said he was a government man and wanted to search for liquor. When Mrs. Ehrhardt demanded their credentials four of the men drew pistols. They ordered her and the girl upstairs. Before leaving the thieves jerked the telephone from the wall.

'KING OF WINDOW SMASHERS' GETS YEAR IN JAIL

Irwin ("Ike") Sandler, termed the king of window smashers, was found guilty of conspiracy to terrorize and smash windows by a jury in Judge George F. Rush's court yesterday. He was ordered to the county jail for one year and given a $2,000 fine. Sandler was the organizer and president of a free lance labor union, the United Shoe Repairers' association. He collected dues from some 2,000 members. When a shoe repairer refused to join his organization his shop windows would be smashed, the evidence disclosed.

"It's Easy to Pay the Wheeler Way"

HURRY! HURRY! HURRY!

To Our January Clearance Sale

Use Cheerful Credit—
Open a Charge Account

Buy Now! Save Now! Pay Later!

O'coats and Suits		Winter Coats
For Men		For Women
(Including 2 Pant Suits)
Values to $40	Values to $50	Values to $40	Values to $50
$29	$39	$29	$39

Winter Coats
Others Reduced to $14.98
Alterations FREE

Fur Coats Reduced 25%
Good Clothing for Men, Women and Children—
Priced Right—On Convenient Terms—
OPEN EVERY SATURDAY UNTIL 9 P. M.

Wheeler's
135 South State Street
Entire 4th Floor over Peacock's ORIGINATORS OF CHEERFUL CREDIT of the Phillips high, replaces Edward C. Rosseter, retiring.

Elementary School Principals.
The appointments and transfers of elementary school principals are:

School One Principal New Principals.
Fiske ... Harry T. Baker, Isabel G. Graham.
Gresham ... Isabel G. Graham, Helen Kull.
Libby ... B. Laughlin, Marie M. Matlock.
Gladstone ... D. M. Davidson, Paul R. Pierce.
Farren ... James T. Kaffney, C. W. Britton.
Clark ... George A. Beers, J. C. Thompson.
Arnold ... Caroline L. Reilly, Ernest Cole.
Earle ... Ernest Cole, William T. McCoy.
Alcott ... William C. Dodge, Thomas Croft.
Foster ... Thomas Croft, Paul H. Beck.
Arnold ... Mrs. A. E. Confield, J. L. O'Brien.
Avondale ... J. H. Stehman, Gertrude S. Pease.
Swing ... Gertrude S. Pease, Mercedes H. Howe.
Lyon ... George A. Cook, Ida M. Trevelian.
Beale ... John W. May, Donald McGuire.
Kershaw ... Donald McGuire, Otto Schenk.
Belding ... Charles A. Cook, Ida M. Trevelian.
Flannagan ... Bertha Giffey.
Higinbotham ... H. H. Hagen, G. H. Wilkinson.
Delano ... G. O'Leary, Irvin A. Wilson.
M. Sheridan ... A. A. Wilson, H. R. McGuire.
Gulton ... Clara A. McFarlin, W. B. Bowlin.
Hamilton ... Elizabeth Farren, J. E. Huber.
Marion ... J. E. Huber, Elmer M. Sanders.
Hawthorne ... G. W. Davis, Kate M. Flanagan.
Peabody ... K. M. Flanagan, F. O. Russell.
Irving ... J. W. Troeger, M. C. Lipman.
Keith ... M. C. Lipman, J. Le Roy Carter.
John ... C. H. Leach, Thelma Donist.
Fallon ... Thelma Donist, Anna Henry.
McPherson ... A. E. Jordan, R. A. Riordan.
Bevin ... K. A. Riordan, R. D. Gray.
Morris ... L. H. Hainroth, A. W. Schroeder.
McClellan ... A. W. Schroeder, C. J. Schwede.
Palmer ... D. D. B. Martin, Elmer E. Kline.
Drake ... Aaron Kline, C. L. Williams.

Boys Held for Four Robberies.
Two youthful bandits, alleged to have held four druggists up in a store in the grand jury in bonds of $30,000 each yesterday by Judge Alexander of the Boys court. They are Aaron Marx, 17 years old, 747 Noble street, and James Chopek, 18 years old, 935 North Basine avenue.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

Finely Decorated Living Room Furniture, At Exceptionally Low Prices

SELDOM have we been able to offer convenient Living Room pieces of this type at these prices. Some are in mahogany or walnut; others are carefully decorated in different colors. The quantity is limited.

Notes on the LINEN TALKS Today at 11:30

"Give Your Linen Closet Personality"
Mrs. Raymond B. Roos

All the world is seeking expression, and most of the world—the expression of something lovely. In "Give Your Linen Closet Personality," Mrs. Raymond B. Roos suggests enchanting modes for the linen closet. Fragrant lavender bags and orderly shelves are just a beginning—our ancestors had those—but not the colorful, informal ingenuity expressed in the decoration of today.

Monday, January 25
"Flower Arrangements for Four Seasons."
Mrs. Charles A. Hubbard.

Tuesday, January 26
"Dinner: the Ceremony from Savage to Sultan."
Mary Hastings Bradley.
Daily at 11:30

The Linen Room, Second Floor, North, State

NO-JURY EXHIBIT Jan. 25 to Feb. 6

The Fourth Exhibition of the Chicago No-Jury Society of Artists

This unique exhibit will be held from January 25 to February 6 in the Art Galleries.

Wednesday, January 27
Under the Auspices of the Eighth District Federation of Women's Clubs.
Second Floor, South, Wabash

Solid Mahogany Martha Washington Sewing Cabinet, $13.75.

Black Decorated Telephone Set, with shelf for the telephone books, $26.50.

Magazine Stands, either walnut or decorated, with trough for books. The one sketched, $10.75.

End Table, decorated, representative of ten others in various shapes and colors, $10.75 ea.

Eighth Floor, Middle, State

ELMWOOD
THE HOME OF James Russell Lowell
Cambridge, Massachusetts

THE Lowell House was built in 1767 by the son of a wealthy West Indian merchant appointed Lt. Governor of Massachusetts under George III. Once it was the home of Elbridge Gerry, Vice President under Madison. Today it is owned and occupied by Prof. A. Kingsley Porter of Harvard.

LOWELL'S home was a little world in itself to him. He loved everything in it and about it. In this sketch he is in his favorite chair—his study—holding forth with one of his favorite literary cronies, Leslie Stephens.

LOWELL is one of the few Americans who lived his entire life (72 years) in the same home in which he was born. Elmwood was his one and only home. Here his children were born and raised. Here every association was dear to him and nowhere was he so happy as at home.

So much of Lowell's poetry refers to his Home—this beautiful old Colonial Home built before the Revolution and purchased by his father in 1817 (just two years before Lowell's birth).

Lowell's Home is fraught with inspiration for this present generation of Home builders who have become so vastly sensible to the beauty and live-able-ness of our old Colonial Homes.

How our Early American Homes met the problems of interior decoration to achieve comfort and how each room was arranged to gain the utmost charm are of what this store has made an intensive study.

With the John M. Smyth Store "The Home Is the Thing." Furnishing homes to make them comfortable and attractive has been our one and only line of interest through 69 consecutive years. Know the multiplicity of advantages of this store, know our Great Selections, our Upholstery, our unusually Low Prices.

THE HOME IS THE THING
No. 19 of Our Series Of Interesting And Historic American Homes, Emphasizing THE HOME IS THE THING

Established Since 1867
Deep Rooted Like An Oak

John M. Smyth Company
Established 1867
MANUFACTURERS-RETAILERS-IMPORTERS

Open Every Saturday
Evening Until 10 P. M.

Copyright, 1925, The John M. Smyth Company

Chicago Daily Tribune

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

FOUNDED JUNE 16, 1857

ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER, JUNE 2, 1863, AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHICAGO, ILL., UNDER ACT OF MARCH 3, 1879.

All unsolicited articles, manuscripts, letters and pictures sent to The Tribune are sent at the sender's risk, and The Tribune assumes no responsibility for their return or return.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 23, 1926.

THE TRIBUNE OFFICES

CHICAGO—TRIBUNE SQUARE.
NEW YORK—515 FIFTH AVENUE.
WASHINGTON—400 WYATT BLDG.
LOS ANGELES—400 HAAS BUILDING.
LONDON—138 FLEET STREET, E. C. 4.
PARIS—1 RUE SOUFFLOT.
BERLIN—1 USTER DEN LINDEN.
PEKING—GRAND HOTEL DES WAGON-LITS.
SHANGHAI—4 AVENUE EDWARD VII.
TOKYO—IMPERIAL HOTEL.
MEXICO CITY—HOTEL REGIS.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong!"
Stephen Decatur.

THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR CHICAGO

- 1—Make Chicago the First City in the World.
- 2—Build the Subway Now.
- 3—Abate the Smoke Evil.
- 4—Stop Reckless Driving.
- 5—Regain Constitutional Representation for Chicago.

SENATOR GOODING FORCES THE ISSUE

The interstate commerce committee of the senate has voted favorably on the Gooding bill. The bill is opposed in New England, on the Pacific coast, and throughout the middle west. If it becomes law it will force our manufacturers and merchants to move from the middle west to the middle Atlantic or Gulf coast in order to hold their markets in the far west. Senator Gooding of Idaho wants to forbid the railroads to meet the competition of the Panama canal route as they do now by reducing their charges on hauling shipments to the coast. The cost of hauling freight, his bill says, must be proportionate to the length of the haul. With such a law in effect, manufacturers in Chicago and anywhere else in the Mississippi valley will be unable to offer any competition to their rivals on the seaboard.

The committee was loaded against the middle west and all the argument in the world could not have turned the tide. Fortunately for us, the situation in the house is more favorable. There the 60,000,000 inhabitants of the middle west have a chance to make their interests felt. The house committee on interstate commerce killed the Gooding bill at the last session and there is reason to hope the committee will act unfavorably upon it again.

We deplore the appeal to sectionalism in Washington, but it has been forced upon us. The middle west was content to let the interstate commerce committee deal with the complicated questions involved in the Gooding bill. Congress created the commission for just such matters. The issues involved are intricate and technical, requiring for their understanding more study than the average congressman can possibly devote to them, and for their determination a judicial detachment cannot be attained. Senator Gooding fears the impartiality of the commission. He wants to settle a technical question politically.

The middle west has only one defense and that is to organize sectionally to defeat the bill. Despite the suffering in the corn belt which congress has done nothing to relieve, the middle west is not down and out today. That is because our industries are prospering. If we lose one of the principal markets for our manufacturers, our industries will suffer just as our corn farmers are suffering from an excess of production. The middle west cannot face that prospect with equanimity. We prefer sectionalism to decline and decay.

THE PROHIBITION PADLOCK

Federal agents, employing the entrapment methods extensively used in the Mayflower hotel in Washington, were served with liquor here in the Morrison hotel by employees. Mr. Yellowley, prohibition administrator for this district, now wants the padlock put on the hotel.

The evidence obtained by the masquerading federal agents, aliens imported by the prohibition department for this purpose, indicates that when the confidence of a house detective and a waiter was obtained, purchases of Scotch and gin were made and the liquor delivered.

Before the prohibition theory of unusual punishments was brought into practice the persons charged with violation would have been brought to trial. Wherever responsibility could have been found and participation in the violation of law sustained by evidence there would have been prosecution.

Under prohibition a confiscation of property is not only proposed, but is possible. It is possible, without a jury trial, for the hotel employees charged with the sale of liquor, for a federal court to padlock the doors of one of the largest hotels in the country and close it to the guests accustomed to being housed there. They then must seek other quarters in a city which has some trouble with continuing construction to keep its hotel accommodations equal to the demand.

No other law of the land is administered in such fashion. The theory is the abatement of a public nuisance, which means something openly offensive to the community, and it is the assertion of the prohibition enforcement department, sustained in numerous cases in the federal courts, that the purchase of liquor in a private room from employees by federal agents made the entire hotel property such a nuisance, openly offensive to the community.

The management of the hotel not only denies responsibility, but says that two federal agents have been given their living in the hotel to prevent the sale of liquor to guests. This in spite of the constitutional provisions against quartering upon the citizens in time of peace. The prohibition theory of law assumes that, although two agents operating in this fashion could not detect violations, these agents nevertheless assumed proportions of public offense that a $10,000,000 property should be padlocked to prevent further offenses against the community well being.

The moralistic inquisition could not get much further away from the constitution of the United States, as once it prevailed, except by including all the guests of the hotel in the penalties. Then it should wait until the coldest night of the year, ject all the occupants of the hotel without their personal belongings and, with them in the street, padlock the doors.

THE UNITED STATES SUBORDINATED IN THE U. S. SENATE

The world court senators are giving their proposition the worst appearance it could have. We shall not contend that the debate in the senate has any impressiveness or dignity. It no longer aims at that if it ever did. Aside from the speeches of a few senators against the court the consideration of the subject has not been on the level of a discussion of a rivers and harbors bill, but beneath it.

Of the proponents only Senator Bruce of Maryland had anything to offer and he in honest candor said the court was the league and he was for both. As a discussion of a subject important to the American future the debate has lost its usefulness, but as a means of creating the proper atmosphere for a decision it is invaluable.

Delay is countering the promotion which flowed from Mr. Bok's purse and it is giving the unorganized sentiment of the country a chance to rally and express itself. It is known that the pro-court strength is feeling the effect of this and the promoters fear that it is evaporating. The decision, for the court, is for all time. At least there are no provisions to the contrary and it is admitted by the tactics of the proponents that a vote must be snapped through before the two-thirds majority can be secured.

The pro-court senators expressed the fear that if they laid the court resolution aside to take up the tax bill, intended for the relief of the American taxpayers, the filibuster of their opponents would be directed against that bill, obstructing this benefit to the nation in order still further to obstruct the court. It seems to us that the opposite was true. The pro-court senators were willing to deny tax relief and stability to the country in order to force through the court project. They were putting an international issue prejudicial to the country ahead of a domestic issue of great importance. As internationalists or as men forced into this state of mind for this purpose they are probably true to form.

The best the United States can possibly get from the world court is nothing. Anything else will be worse than nothing. But the pro-court senators are willing to subordinate the good of the country, contained in the tax bill, to the international urge which is getting the United States into the world court.

Nothing could be lost by delay in the court debate. If the two-thirds vote for the court in the senate has any confidence in its opinion it will put this country in the court fast enough. If it hasn't any confidence it ought to be compelled to stand the test of time. There is much to be lost in delay of the tax bill. It may be made impossible for the government to prepare the forms for the tax return in March.

The pro-court senators are not required to surrender their cause to bring the tax bill up. The opposition would be so required. The men who are trying to keep the United States from this commitment, and who are doing so from conviction and not because they have yielded to promotion, would be obliged to give up and to accept what they believe is injurious to the country.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

The judiciary committee of the city council, by a vote of 11 to 2, has recommended a continuance of daylight saving during the summer of 1926. Opponents of the spring clock changing, however, caused the aldermen to recommend, further, that daylight saving be put to a referendum vote at the November elections.

The great majority of people like the extra sunlit hour that daylight saving brings them. The average city dweller goes to work between 7 and 9 o'clock and knocks off around 5 or 6. Daylight saving was created for him and he far outnumbered the few classes of workers whose daylight saving annoys.

Chicagoans, living under a winter long smoke cloud, need and want that extra hour. The city council should see that they have it.

ASK ROBERT MORRISON, TRIBUNE TOWER ENGINEER

"Where is the smokestack on the Tribune Tower?" It is right beside the base of the skyscraper. Not one person out of a thousand has noticed it, though. The reason is that the stack of the Tribune Tower does not smoke.

It does not smoke, and the Tower is probably more economically heated than any other office building in Chicago. In comparing notes with the manager of one of the Tower's large neighbors it was found that the cost of heating the Tower was between 7 and 8 cents per thousand pounds of steam less than that of the other building.

The clean air committee of the Woman's City Club watched the Tower for two months, trying to catch sight of a wisp of smoke. They failed. Finally they called Robert Morrison, engineer of the Tower, before their committee to ask him how he did it. He told them.

The Tower does not smoke. Its heating system is a money saver. Ask Robert Morrison. He'll tell you how it's done.

Editorial of the Day

SAVING OUR YOUTH

[Illinois State Journal, Springfield, Ill.] Representative Florence Kahn from California has introduced in congress a bill permitting the manufacture and sale of liquors of 2.75 per cent alcohol. She is prompted to this action by a desire to save the youth of the land from the hip flask. Two and three-quarter per cent liquor at the bar will stop hip taping to the door of one of the largest hotels in the country and close it to the guests accustomed to being housed there. They then must seek other quarters in a city which has some trouble with continuing construction to keep its hotel accommodations equal to the demand.

No other law of the land is administered in such fashion. The theory is the abatement of a public nuisance, which means something openly offensive to the community, and it is the assertion of the prohibition enforcement department, sustained in numerous cases in the federal courts, that the purchase of liquor in a private room from employees by federal agents made the entire hotel property such a nuisance, openly offensive to the community.

The management of the hotel not only denies responsibility, but says that two federal agents have been given their living in the hotel to prevent the sale of liquor to guests. This in spite of the constitutional provisions against quartering upon the citizens in time of peace. The prohibition theory of law assumes that, although two agents operating in this fashion could not detect violations, these agents nevertheless assumed proportions of public offense that a $10,000,000 property should be padlocked to prevent further offenses against the community well being.

The moralistic inquisition could not get much further away from the constitution of the United States, as once it prevailed, except by including all the guests of the hotel in the penalties. Then it should wait until the coldest night of the year,

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, of matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed, Dr. Evans will not make a diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

[Copyright, 1926, By Dr. W. A. Evans.]

FACTS ABOUT THE LIVER

THE liver weighs more than any other organ in the body. It is larger than any other organ, if we except the lungs, and most of the volume of the latter is due to the air within them. Furthermore, the liver cells are highly specialized, complex chemical structures in close touch with the blood stream. While one of the functions of the liver is the production of bile, which liquid is excreted into the bile ducts, the more important function is packing substances from the blood which bathes the liver cells and pouring other substances into that blood. It stands to reason that the liver is one of the most important organs in the body.

It is rather generally agreed now that the more important activities of the liver are the following:

1. Maintaining the normal level of blood sugar.
2. Formation of urea out of proteins.
3. Destruction of uric acid as such.
4. Storing fats and aiding in their use.
5. Making certain poisonous substances wholesome or at least harmless.
6. Removing bacteria and other foreign bodies from the blood stream.
7. Aiding in the bringing about of immunity.
8. Influencing the coagulability of the blood.
9. Secretion of bile, including the cholesterol, bile salts, bile acids, and water.

In spite of the great importance to health and life of the liver, we have been exceedingly slow in finding the facts about the liver, and as a result there is still doubt. Take the matter of the influence of drugs on the liver. Almost any man on the street will tell you of a list of purgatives at least one or two of which are good for the liver, and yet Dr. Carlson says: "Aside from foods, the acid gastric juice, the bile salts, and whole bile, there are at present no definitely demonstrated cholagogues. This is a curious commentary on numerous kinds of liver pills and liver remedies." On this point some other research students and clinicians do not agree with Dr. Carlson.

In a discussion of the subject before the American Medical Association the following were said to stimulate the liver: Sulphate of iron, sulphate of zinc, sulphate of copper, sulphate of calcium, sulphate of magnesium, sulphate of sodium, sulphate of potassium, sulphate of ammonium, sulphate of strontium, sulphate of barium, sulphate of lead, sulphate of bismuth, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur, sulphate of carbon, sulphate of silicon, sulphate of germanium, sulphate of tin, sulphate of antimony, sulphate of arsenic, sulphate of mercury, sulphate of silver, sulphate of gold, sulphate of platinum, sulphate of palladium, sulphate of rhodium, sulphate of iridium, sulphate of osmium, sulphate of selenium, sulphate of tellurium, sulphate of iodine, sulphate of bromine, sulphate of chlorine, sulphate of fluorine, sulphate of oxygen, sulphate of hydrogen, sulphate of nitrogen, sulphate of phosphorus, sulphate of sulfur,

Nearly a Million-Line Gain in 1925 /

THE EVENING WORLD closed the year 1925 with a gain of 993,294 lines of advertising, one of the largest increases in its history.

★993,294 to be exact

It is all the more notable that this gain of 12.6% came at the climax of a two-year period marked by the most sensational changes New York newspaperdom has ever known in a similar length of time.

Undisturbed by mergers and consolidations that destroyed many years of advertising goodwill, purchased during decades in papers that suddenly ceased to exist, THE EVENING WORLD has forged steadily ahead until it occupies to-day a commanding position among the evening advertising mediums of the greatest retail market in the United States.

Nothing more clearly demonstrates a newspaper's value as an advertising medium than the use which is made of it by the great merchants of the community that it serves.

The record in the adjoining box is therefore of utmost significance to the user of small space as well as the user of large lineage. Further than that, it serves as an important guide for the national advertiser who must depend on these very stores for his greatest distribution.

THE EVENING WORLD'S total Dry Goods gain of 878,142 lines is more than double the combined gains in this classification of all other evening newspapers. It is within 10,000 lines of the combined Dry Goods gains of the entire morning paper field.

In Men's Wear advertising, another test of a newspaper's virility, THE EVENING WORLD'S gain was double that of its nearest competitor, and 10,000 lines greater than the combined gains of the evening paper field.

Merchants who know, who place their advertising upon the most carefully recorded experience, who expect action within twenty-four hours of the appearance of a piece of copy, are increasing their space in THE EVENING WORLD more rapidly than in any other paper, morning or evening in Greater New York.

How the Great Merchants of New York Use THE EVENING WORLD

DURING 1925, the large stores listed below used 4,541,914 lines of space in THE EVENING WORLD. This represented a gain of 872,993 lines over the space used in 1924, by far the greatest increase in department store lineage shown by any paper, morning or evening, in the city.

This represents the matured judgment of the most important group of merchants in America.

B. Altman & Co.
Best & Company
Bonwit Teller & Co.
Hearn & Company
R. H. Macy & Co.
Saks-Herald Square
Stern Brothers
Lane Bryant

Arnold Constable & Co.
Bloomingdale Brothers
Gimbel Brothers
Lord & Taylor
Oppenheimer Collins & Co.
Franklin Simon & Co.
John Wanamaker
Worth

The Evening World

PULITZER BUILDING, NEW YORK TRIBUNE TOWER, CHICAGO

WOMEN'S RAP AT G.O.P. COALITIONS STIRSPOLITICIANS

Alliances with Thompson and Small Protested.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Both major groups of Republicans now lining up for the April primary are condemned unqualifiedly in resolutions adopted by the directors of the Women's Roosevelt Republican club. The action of the club was the subject of much discussion at all headquarters yesterday and the wording of the resolutions was analyzed carefully. The text follows:

"Whereas the Woman's Roosevelt Republican club always has been working against policies of Gov. Len Small and William Hale Thompson; and

"Whereas the club has cooperated with Edward J. Brundage, Charles V. Barrett, and Senator Charles S. Deneen in their fight against these two; and

"Whereas the Brundage and Deneen forces apparently have aligned themselves with Thompson on the one hand and with Small on the other for the county primary, therefore, be it

"Resolved that the board of directors of the Woman's Roosevelt Republican club protest these alliances vigorously and refuses to endorse either of their county tickets."

HOME RULERS INVOKE '76

The "Spirit of '76" will keynote the county ratification convention of the Barrett-Crowe-Brundage-Thompson forces, which next Tuesday will launch the home rule ticket for the April primary.

In colonial costume and with rifle and drum, two men and a boy will lead down the center aisle of the new ballroom of the Hotel Sherman the 500 service men called into formation again as a protest against the world court.

And across the wall at the front of the hall will be a big sign reading:

HOME RULE.

City-County-State-Nation. America First! No World Court! Campaign Rallying Slogan.

This development of the autonomy slogan is to be used throughout the campaign. County Chairman Homer K. Galpin had ordered 100 rubber stamps carrying the wording borne by the banner. But, highly enthusiastic over the battle cry, William Hale Thompson went to the manufacturer and asked for prices on 1,000 and 5,000 stamps.

"We can use that many," he told a meeting of ward committeemen. "If you go to the business houses in your ward and ask them to use them on all the mail matter they send out they not only will consent, but will be glad to pay for the stamps."

So far as the state committee is concerned the Home Rule ticket is about completed, but before it is ratified by the Tuesday convention it must have the approval of the advisory committee of 250 which will meet on Monday. The latest development is an indication that several of the ten Republicans on the municipal bench will be omitted from both the Home Rule and the Deneen tickets.

Four Sitting Judges Omitted.

The Barrett-Crowe forces thus far have included in their slate only five of the ten. They are Robert E. Gentzel, John A. Bugas, Laurence B. Jacobs, William J. Fisher and Joseph W. Schulman. The Deneen slate will include Judge George B. Holmes unless he is backed for the county judgeship. That would leave Judges Samuel H. Trude, Henry M. Walker, William L. Morgan and Am. G. Adams out in the cold.

Another development in connection with the home rule is a discovery that the law holds that Judge George Kersten's place in the Circuit court became vacant when he was adjudged insane several months ago. Circuit Clerk Thomas O. Wallace sent a formal notice to Gov. Small notifying him of the vacancy and calling attention to a statutory requirement that the governor shall call a special election.

BRITISH SCHOOLS HELD GOOD ONLY AS CLERK MAKERS

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

(Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Modern British elementary education was attacked at today's meeting of the British Chambers of Commerce at Bath by Lord Southwark, famous business man and politician. The system, he said, is only fit for making clerks while skilled workers are wanted.

"My experience shows the system tends to produce too great numbers of what is known as clerical assistants," he said. "The craze to become clerks has resulted in the market being flooded with clerks and unemployed, who have a smattering in general subjects, but are masters of none. I do not believe in securing a fixed position at a fixed salary. Cramping knowledge down, a child's throat as it is at present done is not education."

"No More Parades" Is Work of Art; Characters Live

By Fanny Butcher.

"No More Parades," by Ford Madox Ford [A. and C. Boni].

"No More Parades" is a continuation of "Some Do Not," which is certainly one of the finest novels written in the last decade.

"No More Parades" does not in the slightest way fall behind "Some Do Not" in achievement. It is, in a sense, a sequel to it, in connection with its predecessor, a greater book, for it carries on in utterly different surroundings the tale which began in a very moderate tempo and, in the new surroundings, increases to allegory.

It is a war book, with something of the detached fierceness of "Disenchantment," which I have heard more than one intelligent soldier say is the very best book written about the war. It is, like "Some Do Not," primarily the story of a man whose roots have been for so many generations in the actualities of gentleness that nothing on earth can make him do, certain wrongs which he would rather suffer than to do. He would ever allow the world to think that he had suffered them.

It is the story of a man whom most Americans are simply incapable of looking upon as anything but a fool, a man whom many readers will confuse with that soppy Mark Sabre of "If Winter Comes." But who has nothing whatever of either theatricality or soporific about him. "He wants to play Jesus Christ," is what his wife says of him (a Sylvia much more comprehensible by the way, in this book than in the last, although she is no less the rotter). What the springs of his actions are is summed up in a phrase, "I am really, sir, the English public schoolboy." That's an eighteenth century product. What we get is the love of truth—that God help me—that rammed into me at Clifton and the belief Arnold forced upon Rugby that the vilest of sins—the vilest of all sins—is to be a hypocrite.

Tietjens, a man whom you keep thinking about long after you have finished the book, is that man—one who simulates to be a headmaster, or to anybody in the world.

It is difficult to read "No More Parades" without being shocked, not at the events, nor the conversation, nor the words chosen, but at the nakedness in their frankness—but at the terrible reality of the book. It is seldom, almost never, that a reader feels that he is actually understanding the characters in a book. Most authors have no intention that their readers shall understand their characters. Mr. Ford has set down an ordinarily incomprehensible man (to say nothing of a strange and incomprehensible woman) who does utterly ordinary things, and yet he has made of him such a real human being, though a strange and unusual one, that he seems more real than any one you know. In a fine and stimulating way the book is shocking, for it makes you wonder what currents of thought are behind the actions of the incomprehensible people you know, it shocks you into thinking about life and what it demands and gives to some.

If you read "Joseph Conrad," that record of Mr. Ford and Joseph Conrad's collaboration and their conversations about writing, you will understand perfectly the method which Mr. Ford has used in this and in "Some Do Not." No one talks in real life consecutively and fully, as characters always do in a novel, he and Conrad decided. No one in "No More Parades" talks like a character in a novel. He says one thing and means a thousand other things. Without really retelling all of those other things, Mr. Ford has succeeded in making you, the reader, know them. It is a great feat of craftsmanship and the result is a great work of art. "No More Parades" is a book that you can no more forget than you can that day when you first realized—through some trivial incident, perhaps—that great beauty is always a pain, that you had reached the real estate of manhood or womanhood, when nothing ever again is unalloyed, either loveliness or horror. It is a tissue of life itself, not for the uninitiated, not for the unthinking, nor the facetiously intrigued, but for the reader who is not afraid to admit that life is life and not a circus.

These two books are as much finer than most of modern fiction as a Tanager is finer than the figurines that basket carrying peddlers sell mislabeled housewives—and for the same reason. There is something terribly and universally real in its outwardly vague beauty. There is something permanent and fine about it. There is something esoteric about its fineness, something that makes those who understand say instinctively, "This is one of the great works of art."

BEST SELLERS OF THE WEEK

"An American Tragedy," by Theodore Dreiser.
"Manhattan Transfer," by John Dos Passos.
"The Private Life of Helen of Troy," by John Erskine.
"Thunder on the Left," by Christopher Morley.
"Porgy," by Du Bois Heyward.
"Jericho Sands," by Mary Borden.

"Life and Letters of Walter Hines Page," Vol. 3, edited by Burton J. Hendrick.
"Jefferson and Hamilton," by Claude G. Bowers.
"Israel," by Ludwig Lewisohn.

"The Elder Sister," by Frank Swinnerton.
"Caravan," by John Galsworthy.
"The Perennial Bachelor," by Anne Parrish.
"Life and Letters of Walter Hines Page," Vol. 3, edited by Burton J. Hendrick.
"Aaron Burr," by Samuel H. Wendell and Meade Minnegerode.
"Israel," by Ludwig Lewisohn.

CONFESSIONS

You all know the books of James Stephens. If you don't, there is ahead of you some of the most delightful fiction and poetry in English. Mr. Stephens has been in Chicago this week, which makes his "confession" just that much more personal and intimate. When I asked him what book he would rather have written than any other he replied:

Dear Miss Butcher: I expect that every artist who is true to himself will give much the same reply to your query as to what book he would rather have written than any other. He will say that, though they be worse than his fears, or half as bad as people say, he would still choose to have written his masterpiece of them all. They, at least, are definitely true to him as the work of Shakespeare and Homer and Dante are not. They are the fruits of his experience of life; and, when he dares to go beyond his experience, they are his imagination and his bending of the bow.

Need I say that only an imaginative work is a creative work. On the whole, when we are envious we are not radically so. We envy another's light, loose belongings, but scarcely a man envies another man his soul, or his tastes, or his temperament, or would swap his personal equipment for that of any genius whatsoever. If you added, that I must put my name on some great book or be hanged, I should not weigh those alternatives, I should—shamefully and in horror of my deed—allow you to call me the author of the Bhagavad Gita. Most great books are "poor enough" in great parts, and are "good enough" in about equal parts, but they are "great" in small and almost undistinguishable spots. These spots are "great," and justify the use of the word. Yours very truly,

James Stephens

"Democracy," by Henry Adams. [Holt].

"Democracy" was issued for the first time this fall with the author's name attached to it. For years it has been known as the work of Henry Adams, the author of the famous "Autobiography," and of that fine and unforgettable "Mont St. Michel and Chartres."

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

BOOKS RECEIVED

"Appassionata," by Fannie Hurst [Knopf]. Not the famous "Mannequin."

"Archie Brun," by Emile Henriot, translated by Henry Longan Stuart [Viking]. A French academy prize novel, the life story of a simple woman who lived for others.

"The Yellow-Maned Lion," by Ernest Glavin [Harcourt-Brace]. The biography of a lion.

"The Voyage Out," by Virginia Woolf [Harcourt-Brace]. A new edition.

"Cloud Cuckoo Land," by Naomi Mitchison [Harcourt-Brace]. A novel of ancient Greece.

"Young Love," by John G. Brandon [Brentano's]. Well titled.

"The Dark Tower," by Francis Brett Young [Knopf]. A well told, weird story of Wales.

"In a German Pension," by Katherine Mansfield [Knopf]. A reprint of her first book.

"Rhoda Fair," by Clarence Budington Kelland [Harcourt-Brace]. A story of romance and adventure.

"The Vanishing American," by Zane Grey [Harcourt-Brace]. The story of an educated Indian.

"Cavalier Currents," by Elsie Janis and Marguerite Aspinwall [Putnam]. A lively novel.

"Les Aventures du fabuliste Bouché," by Alexis-Rene Le Sage [Century]. A tale in French by the author of "Gil Blas," edited for school use.

"Influencing Human Behavior," by H. A. Overstreet [Doran]. A new volume of the Lectures-in-Print series, about learning to become "skilled artists in the enterprise of human life."

"How to Describe and Narrate Visually," by L. A. Sherman, Ph. D. [Doran].

"The Funny Side Out," by Nellie Revell [Doran]. "The only thing that book takes seriously is the reader's sense of humor."

"The Science of Keeping Young," by Alfred McCann [Doran]. Advice on food by a famous dietitian.

"Later Days," by W. H. Davies [Doran]. Carries on the "Autobiography of a Super-Trip."

"France," edited by Oswald Chenu. An account of our country's debts to France.

"Go to Florida," by Ralph Henry Barbour [Dodd-Mead]. Information.

"The Greek View of Life," by G. L. Dickinson [Doubleday-Page]. An introduction to Greek literature and thought.

"Arthur Symonds, a Critical Study," by T. B. W. W. [Adelphi Co.].

"My Journey Down the Nile," by S. Gayer, Ph. D. of Zurich [Adelphi]. An account of an archaeological journey to Assyria.

"Partie in the Revolution," by G. Le Notre [Brentano's]. A study of the revolution, with an effort to reconstruct the background.

"The Medical Society publishes two travel books with many unusually good photographs. They are 'The Dolomites,' by Gabriel Faure, and 'From Nice to Eviata,' by Henri Ferand.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

"Sue Em," by Nancy Bancroft Brooks [Brentano's]. The first radio play printed in America.

"Les Fleurs du mal," by Charles Baudelaire, translated by Lewis Pigeat [Holt]. Complete.

"The Weary Blues," by Langston Hughes [Knopf]. Real poetry by a Negro.

"Pittsburgh," by Harold McNair. A paper-bound sequence of sonnets inspired by the city.

"The American's London," by Thomas Hunt Martin [Edwin V. Mitchell]. A guide book with the emphasis on facts and anecdotes relating to the United States.

Jane Austen's Home Life Portrayed in Volume of Letters

By Sidney Dark.

[Bookish Critic.]

"Jane Austen," wrote Fitzgerald of Omar Khayyam fame, "is capital as far as she goes, but she never goes out of the parlor."

That is true, but in the parlor Jane Austen is as great a novelist as Fielding and as unselfish as Tolstoy. The recently published volume of her letters, far from being a study of her life, shows us Jane still in the family parlor. There are forty-four letters altogether. They are written to her family and are mostly concerned with those trivial family affairs which are the most important things in all our lives. They are written with the precision and wit, insight, and spinster femininity.

Mr. Belloc and Mr. Chesterton are always regretting the passing of "Miss England" when men were all good Catholics and every one was content and happy. Professor Coulton, the Cambridge historian, contends that there never was such a place as "Miss England" and in his new book "The Mediaeval Village," he suggests that the peasant in the middle ages had a perfectly horrid time and that the churchman, far from being an ideal landlord, as Cobbe said he was, took no care at all for the welfare of his tenants and his serfs. Prof. Coulton is a doubtful antagonist and his book is elaborately documented. All his contentions, however, have to be regarded with a little suspicion since he belongs to that school of metriculously careful historians who know all about the trees, but hardly realize the existence of the forest.

The author of the tremendously successful "The Constant Nymph," has finished a new novel to which she has given the title "The Ash Grove." I am told that its setting is "picturesquely English." Miss Margaret Kennedy has received a very large number of rights of her story and it will not be published in book form until the autumn.

Until the war, England imported most of its humor, and the writings of the American humorist found a ready market in this country. Now we have a certain number of humorists of our own. I am not sure whether their humor would be appreciated by American readers, but to me the most talented of them is Mr. D. B. Wyndham Lewis, in far more spontaneous and amusing than Stephen Leacock. It would be an interesting experiment—and I propose to try it—to hand Mr. Lewis's new book, "At the Blue Moon Again," to three or four American readers and to note whether they laugh. I should particularly recommend "Tamsky," the sculptor of the memorial panel to Ella Wheeler Wilcox, commissioned by the Anglo-Saxon Poetry Lovers' union.

Arnold Bennett's play "The Bright Island" to which the Stage society has given a Sunday evening performance, will be issued in volume form early in the new year, and it will be shortly afterward followed by the dramatic version of "Mr. Frohock," which is to have its theatrical production almost at once.

"Observations," by Max Beerbohm

To the initiate one of the events of the year is the publication of that season's group of cartoons by Max Beerbohm. This year's—no, rather, last year's—has just come from the press. So few of the pictures have to do with purely political things that any one would find them amusing. At least half a dozen more of them are concerned with literary persons—Shaw, Wells, John Drinkwater, Lytton Strachey, Stephen Hudson of whom I have never seen a photograph and who says that he has never had one taken, Kipling, Arnold Bennett, the Stilwells, Walter de la Mare, and others.

"Flanders and Hainault," by Olive Holland [Medici Society].

SATURDAY, JANUARY 23, 1926.

* * 11

MONTE CARLO

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

SYNOPSIS

Mr. Hargrave, a country gentleman and financier, calls on a famous London pianist for examination. The doctor tells him that he cannot live for more than six months. Hargrave takes the blow standing and decides to go on with his plans for the winter as though nothing had happened. He feels, however, an urge to give a gift to some poor fellow creature. He experiments on the people he comes in contact with until he finds one who is in need of help. This one proves to be a delicate looking woman, a violinist, who serves him regularly. He offers her a position as a member of his family a vacation of two months at his villa at Monte Carlo. Not having any family, Violet induces her fiancé, Robert, to pose as her brother and come with her. Their host then sends them a free room in Monte Carlo and they enjoy themselves to the fullest extent. Hargrave's London cousin—the Rev. Philip Gore, John Marton, his financial adviser, and Lord Pellingham—arrive at Monte Carlo. Hargrave gives a supper party for his friends at the Carlton and though the guests are the Princess Putzka, a great beauty, to whom he had paid marked attention. The princess is in love with Hargrave. While the party is in progress, Robert, who is not of it, creates a disturbance in another part of the club and is finally ejected. The bar has evidently been drinking too much and he quarrels with his host, telling him that Violet is his fiancée and not his sister. Violet breaks her engagement with Robert and early the next morning leaves Hargrave's villa, intending to return to London. Her host follows her and brings her back, forgiving her for the deception practiced upon him. Hargrave's financial rival and enemy, Andrea Trentino, arrives at Monte Carlo.

INSTALLMENT XXXVI. HARGRAVE MEETS HIS ENEMY.

Hargrave shrugged his shoulders. His eyes had met the marchesa's for a moment. He realized their message. She was disappointed. She was for the conqueror.

"Perhaps you are right," Hargrave observed. "One has one's choice. One can always refuse to accept a fight."

It was as though the purpose of his words themselves, inaudible at such a distance, had traveled across the table. Trentino looked up for one moment, and this time there was a distinct frown upon his face.

"Do you know who he is?" Violet asked.

"I can guess," Hargrave never met him, but I think his name is Trentino—Andrea Trentino."

The play became uneventful. Presently Hargrave and Violet left their places, and strolled into the crowded roulette room. They looked into the box. Hargrave felt a touch upon his arm, and turned around to face the marchesa.

"The Hargrave," she said, "my friend, Mr. Trentino, is anxious to meet you. Mr. Trentino—Sir Hargrave Wendover."

Hargrave accepted the introduction easily enough, but contented himself with a little bow. Trentino, who had been watching closely, accepted the hint and did not offer his own hand.

"I asked the marchesa to make us known, Sir Hargrave," he said, "because there is a little matter of business which I think we might discuss to our mutual benefit."

"Scarcely here," was the murmured response.

"A most unsuitable environment, I admit," Trentino agreed. "I could not ask you to take a glass of wine here but scarcely to discuss a momentous business."

Paris Laughs at U.S. Idea of Longer Skirts

Will Fight for Freedom of Legs Couturier Says.

BY HENRY WALES

(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Cabled dispatches from the United States that the American dressmakers had decided to decrease long skirts instead of the present skimpy short ones have elicited chuckles of amusement from the Paris fashion creators and style dictators.

"The Tribune today told the leading maisons in Rue de la Paix, Rue Royale, and Champs Elysees, and everywhere the American attempt to lengthen dresses was met with derision."

"America tried to institute long skirts once before—in 1921, I believe," said Jean Patou, leading couturier. "It was a dismal failure, and in 1923, when Paris showed moderately short skirts, New York radically cut off the dresses at the knees, but we refused to follow suit."

"New York cannot dictate fashions to Paris now, after failing to do so during the war, when most of our personnel were mobilized and material was lacking because every one was doing war work and it was extremely difficult for the buyers to brave the mines and submarine boats and obtain passports even to visit us and select models."

M. Patou bases his disbelief that women will return to long sweeping skirts on the ground that everything is tending toward simplicity—bobbed hair, the elimination of corsets, brasieres, and even underwear, and the summer vogue of bare legs and sandals comprised of a few straps instead of the former high shoes, and plain clothe hats instead of elaborate feathered, fruited, and flowered affairs.

"The women are more active today than ever and are becoming more active daily, and will not consent to skirts flapping in the dust and hampering their dancing, motorizing, and walking. Of course, shortness of skirts is easily abused, and the individual should be taken into consideration in designing. Slender, well shaped women with nice legs can wear a dress reaching to just below the knees, whereas a less well formed woman with bowed or knock-kneed legs should wear them shorter."

Twenty-four turned up. She looked at him a little ruefully.

"Perhaps your luck is not the same when you play for anyone else," she suggested, watching her eleven louis being swept away.

"We'll see," he answered.

He selected eleven louis from the little heap in front of him and pushed them toward the croupier.

"Le même jeu," he directed.

Violet watched the spinning of the wheel eagerly.

"This is wildly exciting," she confessed. "I've never had more than two louis before."

Eleven turned up.

"We win a little," Hargrave explained. "Forty-nine louis, less our original stake."

He threw a louis to the croupier and pushed a further little heap forward.

"Le même jeu," he told the croupier once more, "on doublet les jetons. Ajoutez les jetons de quatorze."

Again the ball spun. Hargrave, glancing up, recognized the Comtesse Fayaldi, watching him intently from the other side of the table. His bow, however, at first passed unnoticed. There was a peculiar quality of vagueness in her eyes which puzzled him. Then came the click of the ball and the amazing announcement of the croupier.

"Quatorze, rouge, pair et manque."

Violet forgot herself. Her startled exclamation was almost hysterical. She clutched her companion by the arm.

"The Hargrave," she exclaimed. "Please look! Fourteen!"

He smiled, still conscious of that steadfast regard from the other side of the table.

"It was a certainty with my money," he assured her.

A stream of counters and plaques which seemed to Violet inexhaustible was pushed across toward her. She accepted them in dumb wonderment.

"However much have I won?"

"Over four milles," he told her.

He tossed two plaques to the croupier and swept the remainder into Violet's arms. The milles he left without doubting. Thirty-four turned up. He came to his feet.

"You now," he confided, "learn the second lesson in the playing of this chance game. You pocket your winnings and you leave off."

"Leave off?" she exclaimed incredulously. "Why, I could play all the evening with these. I have never been so excited in my life."

"It is obvious then," he declared, "that your nerves need calming. We will find a quiet corner in the bar and you shall gloat over your winnings."

She rose to her feet willingly enough, although with a glance of regret at the table. The Comtesse Fayaldi left her place and intercepted them. Her countenance was once more perfectly natural. She greeted Hargrave charmingly.

"Your good fortune remains," she observed.

"I win at these games," he admitted.

"May I know your companion?" she inquired. "It is such a pleasure. You will forgive my saying so to watch her."

(Copyright, 1926, by E. Phillips Oppenheim.)

French Duke Here to Save His Nation's Art from the Despoiler

Will Fight for Freedom of Legs Couturier Says.

BY HENRY WALES

(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Cabled dispatches from the United States that the American dressmakers had decided to decrease long skirts instead of the present skimpy short ones have elicited chuckles of amusement from the Paris fashion creators and style dictators.

"The Tribune today told the leading maisons in Rue de la Paix, Rue Royale, and Champs Elysees, and everywhere the American attempt to lengthen dresses was met with derision."

"America tried to institute long skirts once before—in 1921, I believe," said Jean Patou, leading couturier. "It was a dismal failure, and in 1923, when Paris showed moderately short skirts, New York radically cut off the dresses at the knees, but we refused to follow suit."

"New York cannot dictate fashions to Paris now, after failing to do so during the war, when most of our personnel were mobilized and material was lacking because every one was doing war work and it was extremely difficult for the buyers to brave the mines and submarine boats and obtain passports even to visit us and select models."

M. Patou bases his disbelief that women will return to long sweeping skirts on the ground that everything is tending toward simplicity—bobbed hair, the elimination of corsets, brasieres, and even underwear, and the summer vogue of bare legs and sandals comprised of a few straps instead of the former high shoes, and plain clothe hats instead of elaborate feathered, fruited, and flowered affairs.

"The women are more active today than ever and are becoming more active daily, and will not consent to skirts flapping in the dust and hampering their dancing, motorizing, and walking. Of course, shortness of skirts is easily abused, and the individual should be taken into consideration in designing. Slender, well shaped women with nice legs can wear a dress reaching to just below the knees, whereas a less well formed woman with bowed or knock-kneed legs should wear them shorter."

Twenty-four turned up. She looked at him a little ruefully.

"Perhaps your luck is not the same when you play for anyone else," she suggested, watching her eleven louis being swept away.

"We'll see," he answered.

He selected eleven louis from the little heap in front of him and pushed them toward the croupier.

"Le même jeu," he directed.

Violet watched the spinning of the wheel eagerly.

"This is wildly exciting," she confessed. "I've never had more than two louis before."

Eleven turned up.

"We win a little," Hargrave explained. "Forty-nine louis, less our original stake."

He threw a louis to the croupier and pushed a further little heap forward.

"Le même jeu," he told the croupier once more, "on doublet les jetons. Ajoutez les jetons de quatorze."

Again the ball spun. Hargrave, glancing up, recognized the Comtesse Fayaldi, watching him intently from the other side of the table. His bow, however, at first passed unnoticed. There was a peculiar quality of vagueness in her eyes which puzzled him. Then came the click of the ball and the amazing announcement of the croupier.

"Quatorze, rouge, pair et manque."

Violet forgot herself. Her startled exclamation was almost hysterical. She clutched her companion by the arm.

"The Hargrave," she exclaimed. "Please look! Fourteen!"

He smiled, still conscious of that steadfast regard from the other side of the table.

"It was a certainty with my money," he assured her.

A stream of counters and plaques which seemed to Violet inexhaustible was pushed across toward her. She accepted them in dumb wonderment.

"However much have I won?"

"Over four milles," he told her.

He tossed two plaques to the croupier and swept the remainder into Violet's arms. The milles he left without doubting. Thirty-four turned up. He came to his feet.

"You now," he confided, "learn the second lesson in the playing of this chance game. You pocket your winnings and you leave off."

"Leave off?" she exclaimed incredulously. "Why, I could play all the evening with these. I have never been so excited in my life."

"It is obvious then," he declared, "that your nerves need calming. We will find a quiet corner in the bar and you shall gloat over your winnings."

She rose to her feet willingly enough, although with a glance of regret at the table. The Comtesse Fayaldi left her place and intercepted them. Her countenance was once more perfectly natural. She greeted Hargrave charmingly.

"Your good fortune remains," she observed.

"I win at these games," he admitted.

"May I know your companion?" she inquired. "It is such a pleasure. You will forgive my saying so to watch her."

(Copyright, 1926, by E. Phillips Oppenheim.)

French Duke Here to Save His Nation's Art from the Despoiler

Will Fight for Freedom of Legs Couturier Says.

BY HENRY WALES

(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Cabled dispatches from the United States that the American dressmakers had decided to decrease long skirts instead of the present skimpy short ones have elicited chuckles of amusement from the Paris fashion creators and style dictators.

"The Tribune today told the leading maisons in Rue de la Paix, Rue Royale, and Champs Elysees, and everywhere the American attempt to lengthen dresses was met with derision."

"America tried to institute long skirts once before—in 1921, I believe," said Jean Patou, leading couturier. "It was a dismal failure, and in 1923, when Paris showed moderately short skirts, New York radically cut off the dresses at the knees, but we refused to follow suit."

"New York cannot dictate fashions to Paris now, after failing to do so during the war, when most of our personnel were mobilized and material was lacking because every one was doing war work and it was extremely difficult for the buyers to brave the mines and submarine boats and obtain passports even to visit us and select models."

M. Patou bases his disbelief that women will return to long sweeping skirts on the ground that everything is tending toward simplicity—bobbed hair, the elimination of corsets, brasieres, and even underwear, and the summer vogue of bare legs and sandals comprised of a few straps instead of the former high shoes, and plain clothe hats instead of elaborate feathered, fruited, and flowered affairs.

"The women are more active today than ever and are becoming more active daily, and will not consent to skirts flapping in the dust and hampering their dancing, motorizing, and walking. Of course, shortness of skirts is easily abused, and the individual should be taken into consideration in designing. Slender, well shaped women with nice legs can wear a dress reaching to just below the knees, whereas a less well formed woman with bowed or knock-kneed legs should wear them shorter."

Twenty-four turned up. She looked at him a little ruefully.

"Perhaps your luck is not the same when you play for anyone else," she suggested, watching her eleven louis being swept away.

"We'll see," he answered.

He selected eleven louis from the little heap in front of him and pushed them toward the croupier.

"Le même jeu," he directed.

Violet watched the spinning of the wheel eagerly.

"This is wildly exciting," she confessed. "I've never had more than two louis before."

Eleven turned up.

"We win a little," Hargrave explained. "Forty-nine louis, less our original stake."

He threw a louis to the croupier and pushed a further little heap forward.

"Le même jeu," he told the croupier once more, "on doublet les jetons. Ajoutez les jetons de quatorze."

Again the ball spun. Hargrave, glancing up, recognized the Comtesse Fayaldi, watching him intently from the other side of the table. His bow, however, at first passed unnoticed. There was a peculiar quality of vagueness in her eyes which puzzled him. Then came the click of the ball and the amazing announcement of the croupier.

"Quatorze, rouge, pair et manque."

Violet forgot herself. Her startled exclamation was almost hysterical. She clutched her companion by the arm.

"The Hargrave," she exclaimed. "Please look! Fourteen!"

He smiled, still conscious of that steadfast regard from the other side of the table.

"It was a certainty with my money," he assured her.

A stream of counters and plaques which seemed to Violet inexhaustible was pushed across toward her. She accepted them in dumb wonderment.

"However much have I won?"

"Over four milles," he told her.

He tossed two plaques to the croupier and swept the remainder into Violet's arms. The milles he left without doubting. Thirty-four turned up. He came to his feet.

"You now," he confided, "learn the second lesson in the playing of this chance game. You pocket your winnings and you leave off."

"Leave off?" she exclaimed incredulously. "Why, I could play all the evening with these. I have never been so excited in my life."

"It is obvious then," he declared, "that your nerves need calming. We will find a quiet corner in the bar and you shall gloat over your winnings."

She rose to her feet willingly enough, although with a glance of regret at the table. The Comtesse Fayaldi left her place and intercepted them. Her countenance was once more perfectly natural. She greeted Hargrave charmingly.

"Your good fortune remains," she observed.

"I win at these games," he admitted.

"May I know your companion?" she inquired. "It is such a pleasure. You will forgive my saying so to watch her."

(Copyright, 1926, by E. Phillips Oppenheim.)

Millions Saved By Fair Play Ad Campaign

Will Fight for Freedom of Legs Couturier Says.

BY HENRY WALES

(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Cabled dispatches from the United States that the American dressmakers had decided to decrease long skirts instead of the present skimpy short ones have elicited chuckles of amusement from the Paris fashion creators and style dictators.

"The Tribune today told the leading maisons in Rue de la Paix, Rue Royale, and Champs Elysees, and everywhere the American attempt to lengthen dresses was met with derision."

"America tried to institute long skirts once before—in 1921, I believe," said Jean Patou, leading couturier. "It was a dismal failure, and in 1923, when Paris showed moderately short skirts, New York radically cut off the dresses at the knees, but we refused to follow suit."

"New York cannot dictate fashions to Paris now, after failing to do so during the war, when most of our personnel were mobilized and material was lacking because every one was doing war work and it was extremely difficult for the buyers to brave the mines and submarine boats and obtain passports even to visit us and select models."

M. Patou bases his disbelief that women will return to long sweeping skirts on the ground that everything is tending toward simplicity—bobbed hair, the elimination of corsets, brasieres, and even underwear, and the summer vogue of bare legs and sandals comprised of a few straps instead of the former high shoes, and plain clothe hats instead of elaborate feathered, fruited, and flowered affairs.

"The women are more active today than ever and are becoming more active daily, and will not consent to skirts flapping in the dust and hampering their dancing, motorizing, and walking. Of course, shortness of skirts is easily abused, and the individual should be taken into consideration in designing. Slender, well shaped women with nice legs can wear a dress reaching to just below the knees, whereas a less well formed woman with bowed or knock-kneed legs should wear them shorter."

Twenty-four turned up. She looked at him a little ruefully.

"Perhaps your luck is not the same when you play for anyone else," she suggested, watching her eleven louis being swept away.

"We'll see," he answered.

He selected eleven louis from the little heap in front of him and pushed them toward the croupier.

"Le même jeu," he directed.

Violet watched the spinning of the wheel eagerly.

"This is wildly exciting," she confessed. "I've never had more than two louis before."

Eleven turned up.

"We win a little," Hargrave explained. "Forty-nine louis, less our original stake."

He threw a louis to the croupier and pushed a further little heap forward.

"Le même jeu," he told the croupier once more, "on doublet les jetons. Ajoutez les jetons de quatorze."

Again the ball spun. Hargrave, glancing up, recognized the Comtesse Fayaldi, watching him intently from the other side of the table. His bow, however, at first passed unnoticed. There was a peculiar quality of vagueness in her eyes which puzzled him. Then came the click of the ball and the amazing announcement of the croupier.

"Quatorze, rouge, pair et manque."

Violet forgot herself. Her startled exclamation was almost hysterical. She clutched her companion by the arm.

"The Hargrave," she exclaimed. "Please look! Fourteen!"

He smiled, still conscious of that steadfast regard from the other side of the table.

"It was a certainty with my money," he assured her.

A stream of counters and plaques which seemed to Violet inexhaustible was pushed across toward her. She accepted them in dumb wonderment.

"However much have I won?"

"Over four milles," he told her.

He tossed two plaques to the croupier and swept the remainder into Violet's arms. The milles he left without doubting. Thirty-four turned up. He came to his feet.

"You now," he confided, "learn the second lesson in the playing of this chance game. You pocket your winnings and you leave off."

"Leave off?" she exclaimed incredulously. "Why, I could play all the evening with these. I have never been so excited in my life."

"It is obvious then," he declared, "that your nerves need calming. We will find a quiet corner in the bar and you shall gloat over your winnings."

She rose to her feet willingly enough, although with a glance of regret at the table. The Comtesse Fayaldi left her place and intercepted them. Her countenance was once more perfectly natural. She greeted Hargrave charmingly.

"Your good fortune remains," she observed.

"I win at these games," he admitted.

"May I know your companion?" she inquired. "It is such a pleasure. You will forgive my saying so to watch her."

(Copyright, 1926, by E. Phillips Oppenheim.)

The Inquiring Reporter Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

Will Fight for Freedom of Legs Couturier Says.

BY HENRY WALES

(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Cabled dispatches from the United States that the American dressmakers had decided to decrease long skirts instead of the present skimpy short ones have elicited chuckles of amusement from the Paris fashion creators and style dictators.

"The Tribune today told the leading maisons in Rue de la Paix, Rue Royale, and Champs Elysees, and everywhere the American attempt to lengthen dresses was met with derision."

"America tried to institute long skirts once before—in 1921, I believe," said Jean Patou, leading couturier. "It was a dismal failure, and in 1923, when Paris showed moderately short skirts, New York radically cut off the dresses at the knees, but we refused to follow suit."

"New York cannot dictate fashions to Paris now, after failing to do so during the war, when most of our personnel were mobilized and material was lacking because every one was doing war work and it was extremely difficult for the buyers to brave the mines and submarine boats and obtain passports even to visit us and select models."

M. Patou bases his disbelief that women will return to long sweeping skirts on the ground that everything is tending toward simplicity—bobbed hair, the elimination of corsets, brasieres, and even underwear, and the summer vogue of bare legs and sandals comprised of a few straps instead of the former high shoes, and plain clothe hats instead of elaborate feathered, fruited, and flowered affairs.

"The women are more active today than ever and are becoming more active daily, and will not consent to skirts flapping in the dust and hampering their dancing, motorizing, and walking. Of course, shortness of skirts is easily abused, and the individual should be taken into consideration in designing. Slender, well shaped women with nice legs can wear a dress reaching to just below the knees, whereas a less well formed woman with bowed or knock-kneed legs should wear them shorter."

Twenty-four turned up. She looked at him a little ruefully.

"Perhaps your luck is not the same when you play for anyone else," she suggested, watching her eleven louis being swept away.

"We'll see," he answered.

He selected eleven louis from the little heap in front of him and pushed them toward the croupier.

"Le même jeu," he directed.

Violet watched the spinning of the wheel eagerly.

"This is wildly exciting," she confessed. "I've never had more than two louis before."

Eleven turned up.

"We win a little," Hargrave explained. "Forty-nine louis, less our original stake."

He threw a louis to the croupier and pushed a further little heap forward.

"Le même jeu," he told the croupier once more, "on doublet les jetons. Ajoutez les jetons de quatorze."

Again the ball spun. Hargrave, glancing up, recognized the Comtesse Fayaldi, watching him intently from the other side of the table. His bow, however, at first passed unnoticed. There was a peculiar quality of vagueness in her eyes which puzzled him. Then came the click of the ball and the amazing announcement of the croupier.

"Quatorze, rouge, pair et manque."

Violet forgot herself. Her startled exclamation was almost hysterical. She clutched her companion by the arm.

"The Hargrave," she exclaimed. "Please look! Fourteen!"

He smiled, still conscious of that steadfast regard from the other side of the table.

"It was a certainty with my money," he assured her.

A stream of counters and plaques which seemed to Violet inexhaustible was pushed across toward her. She accepted them in dumb wonderment.

"However much have I won?"

"Over four milles," he told her.

He tossed two plaques to the croupier and swept the remainder into Violet's arms. The milles he left without doubting. Thirty-four turned up. He came to his feet.

"You now," he confided, "learn the second lesson in the playing of this chance game. You pocket your winnings and you leave off."

"Leave off?" she exclaimed incredulously. "Why, I could play all the evening with these. I have never been so excited in my life."

"It is obvious then," he declared, "that your nerves need calming. We will find a quiet corner in the bar and you shall gloat over your winnings."

She rose to her feet willingly enough, although with a glance of regret at the table. The Comtesse Fayaldi left her place and intercepted them. Her countenance was once more perfectly natural. She greeted Hargrave charmingly.

"Your good fortune remains," she observed.

"I win at these games," he admitted.

"May I know your companion?" she inquired. "It is such a pleasure. You will forgive my saying so to watch her."

(Copyright, 1926, by E. Phillips Oppenheim.)

Insull Places Opera Deficit at $400,000

Will Fight for Freedom of Legs Couturier Says.

BY EDWARD MOORE

(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Cabled dispatches from the United States that the American dressmakers had decided to decrease long skirts instead of the present skimpy short ones have elicited chuckles of amusement from the Paris fashion creators and style dictators.

"The Tribune today told the leading maisons in Rue de la Paix, Rue Royale, and Champs Elysees, and everywhere the American attempt to lengthen dresses was met with derision."

"America tried to institute long skirts once before—in 1921, I believe," said Jean Patou, leading couturier. "It was a dismal failure, and in 1923, when Paris showed moderately short skirts, New York radically cut off the dresses at the knees, but we refused to follow suit."

"New York cannot dictate fashions to Paris now, after failing to do so during the war, when most of our personnel were mobilized and material was lacking because every one was doing war work and it was extremely difficult for the buyers to brave the mines and submarine boats and obtain passports even to visit us and select models."

M. Patou bases his disbelief that women will return to long sweeping skirts on the ground that everything is tending toward simplicity—bobbed hair, the elimination of corsets, brasieres, and even underwear, and the summer vogue of bare legs and sandals comprised of a few straps instead of the former high shoes, and plain clothe hats instead of elaborate feathered, fruited, and flowered affairs.

"The women are more active today than ever and are becoming more active daily, and will not consent to skirts flapping in the dust and hampering their dancing, motorizing, and walking. Of course, shortness of skirts is easily abused, and the individual should be taken into consideration in designing. Slender, well shaped women with nice legs can wear a dress reaching to just below the knees, whereas a less well formed woman with bowed or knock-kneed legs should wear them shorter."

Twenty-four turned up. She looked at him a little ruefully.

"Perhaps your luck is not the same when you play for anyone else," she suggested, watching her eleven louis being swept away.

"We'll see," he answered.

He selected eleven louis from the little heap in front of him and pushed them toward the croupier.

"Le même jeu," he directed.

Violet watched the spinning of the wheel eagerly.

"This is wildly exciting," she confessed. "I've never had more than two louis before."

Eleven turned up.

"We win a little," Hargrave explained. "Forty-nine louis, less our original stake."

He threw a louis to the croupier and pushed a further little heap forward.

"Le même jeu," he told the croupier once more, "on doublet les jetons. Ajoutez les jetons de quatorze."

Again the ball spun. Hargrave, glancing up, recognized the Comtesse Fayaldi, watching him intently from the other side of the table. His bow, however, at first passed unnoticed. There was a peculiar quality of vagueness in her eyes which puzzled him. Then came the click of the ball and the amazing announcement of the croupier.

"Quatorze, rouge, pair et manque."

Violet forgot herself. Her startled exclamation was almost hysterical. She clutched her companion by the arm.

"The Hargrave," she exclaimed. "Please look! Fourteen!"

He smiled, still conscious of that steadfast regard from the other side of the table.

"It was a certainty with my money," he assured her.

A stream of counters and plaques which seemed to Violet inexhaustible was pushed across toward her. She accepted them in dumb wonderment.

"However much have I won?"

"Over four milles," he told her.

He tossed two plaques to the croupier and swept the remainder into Violet's arms. The milles he left without doubting. Thirty-four turned up. He came to his feet.

"You now," he confided, "learn the second lesson in the playing of this chance game. You pocket your winnings and you leave off."

"Leave off?" she exclaimed incredulously. "Why, I could play all the evening with these. I have never been so excited in my life."

"It is obvious then," he declared, "that your nerves need calming. We will find a quiet corner in the bar and you shall gloat over your winnings."

She rose to her feet willingly enough, although with a glance of regret at the table. The Comtesse Fayaldi left her place and intercepted them. Her countenance was once more perfectly natural. She greeted Hargrave charmingly.

"Your good fortune remains," she observed.

"I win at these games," he admitted.

"May I know your companion?" she inquired. "It is such a pleasure. You will forgive my saying so to watch her."

(Copyright, 1926, by E. Phillips Oppenheim.)

Amy Neill, Chicago Violinist, Is Good Symphony Solist

Will Fight for Freedom of Legs Couturier Says.

BY EDWARD MOORE

(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Cabled dispatches from the United States that the American dressmakers had decided to decrease long skirts instead of the present skimpy short ones have elicited chuckles of amusement from the Paris fashion creators and style dictators.

"The Tribune today told the leading maisons in Rue de la Paix, Rue Royale, and Champs Elysees, and everywhere the American attempt to lengthen dresses was met with derision."

"America tried to institute long skirts once before—in 1921, I believe," said Jean Patou, leading couturier. "It was a dismal failure, and in 1923, when Paris showed moderately short skirts, New York radically cut off the dresses at the knees, but we refused to follow suit."

Irish Is Creditor Nation, Envoy Says

Will Fight for Freedom of Legs Couturier Says.

BY EDWARD MOORE

(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Cabled dispatches from the United States that the American dressmakers had decided to decrease long skirts instead of the present skimpy short ones have elicited chuckles of amusement from the Paris fashion creators and style dictators.

"The Tribune today told the leading maisons in Rue de la Paix, Rue Royale, and Champs Elysees, and everywhere the American attempt to lengthen dresses was met with derision."

"America tried to institute long skirts once before—in 1921, I believe," said Jean Patou, leading couturier. "It was a dismal failure, and in 1923, when Paris showed moderately short skirts, New York radically cut off the dresses at the knees, but we refused to follow suit."

"New York cannot dictate fashions to Paris now, after failing to do so during the war, when most of our personnel were mobilized and material was lacking because every one was doing war work and it was extremely difficult for the buyers to brave the mines and submarine boats and obtain passports even to visit us and select models."

M. Patou bases his disbelief that women will return to long sweeping skirts on the ground that everything is tending toward simplicity—bobbed hair, the elimination of corsets, brasieres, and even underwear, and the summer vogue of bare legs and sandals comprised of a few straps instead of the former high shoes, and plain clothe hats instead of elaborate feathered, fruited, and flowered affairs.

"The women are more active today than ever and are becoming more active daily, and will not consent to skirts flapping in the dust and hampering their dancing, motorizing, and walking. Of course, shortness of skirts is easily abused, and the individual should be taken into consideration in designing. Slender, well shaped women with nice legs can wear a dress reaching to just below the knees, whereas a less well formed woman with bowed or knock-kneed legs should wear them shorter."

SARGENT PLEADS FOR OBSERVANCE OF VOLSTEAD ACT

Attorney General Calls Rum Buying Bribery.

New York, Jan. 22.—(U.P.)—Attorney General Sargent has studied the relationship of prohibition and crime waves and has reached the conclusion that there is logic in the position of the person who, paid a bribe by respectable citizens for breaking the liquor laws, continues with a career of crime.

In his first public discussion of prohibition enforcement since taking charge of the department of justice Mr. Sargent asked the members of the New York State Bar association to-night whether it is any wonder that banditry, murder, bribery, and corruption flourish when decent citizens constantly are paying the criminals inclined to take the risk of violating other laws.

Seeks "Real Root of Trouble." The eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, he said, are settled laws of the land and must be enforced. The attorney general added that he would not be drawn into a discussion of other phases of the question, but desired to talk over the "situation" with a view to solving the enforcement problem by finding the "real root of the trouble."

His discussion had nothing to do with offenses against the law committed from motives of jealousy, anger, revenge, passion, and ill will toward society, he continued, since every citizen had come to regard it as a duty to aid in the detection and punishment of such offenders, and in correcting the conditions which make them offenders.

Every person who sells liquor does it solely and only because some one will pay a price high enough to make a profit sufficient to offset the chance of detection, conviction, and punishment. To put it differently, every such sale is the direct result of the offer and payment by the purchaser of a bribe to the dealer to break the law.

Now, why do otherwise respectable citizens engage in such bribery? "Because, they say, the law interferes with their personal liberty, in that they have an inherent right to drink whiskey, or any other liquor, if they choose; that it is nobody's business but their own, and, therefore, no one may decide for them whether the use of liquor is or is not injurious."

"Can any good citizen say, 'I will pay a bribe to any one who will violate this law of my country?'"

Dry Judge Hits Liquor Laws. Benton, Ill., Jan. 22.—(Special.)—A modification of the state dry law so as to permit its proper enforcement was urged today by County Judge S. M. Ward in passing sentence on a score of violators of the liquor act.

He declared Franklin county was the banner enforcement county of the state, but doubted the possibility of making it dry under the existing laws.

Our fixed policy of selling strictly for cash permits us to sell at substantially lower prices.

In our January Clearance Sale we feature Spring Frocks Specially Priced at $16.75 $29.50 $39.50

This Frock Georgette high collar, lined with Tulle. Price, $35

Frock Clearance at $10 $24 $34

Smart fashions for daytime, afternoon or dinner wear in satin, crepe de chine, flat crepe and georgette are featured at very great price reductions in three groups and priced at $10, $24, and $34.

ONTARIO RETURNS TO HARD LIQUOR ON NEXT MAY 1

Province Promises Good Beer, Too.

By R. A. FARQUHARSON. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Toronto, Ont., Jan. 22.—A frantic quest launched last night for the old charter of the London Travelers' club, which closed its doors after the advent of prohibition in September, 1916, brought to light what is believed to be an authentic record of the newly announced policy of the provincial government on wet legislation, submitted in confidence by a representative of the government at a meeting of certain hotel proprietors and party leaders, held in cameras at London yesterday.

The government, the hotel owners were advised, have tentatively decided upon the following policy: The government, without taking another referendum or appealing to the country in any manner, will make new legislation effective on May 1 granting hotels the right to sell strong beer and wine, either in bottles or from the tap.

Wines and beers will be sold in bottles and not in clubs, but a license will not be granted to any club that did not exist under charter prior to 1916. Draft beverages will not be allowed.

Hard liquors will be sold in packages from government dispensaries, under the permit system, similar to that in operation in British Columbia. These regulations will apply on a "local option" principle. All municipalities which voted wet in 1924 are to be regarded as wet and all which favored the dry program will be held bound by the carrying of liquor over the borders of electoral districts.

WIDOW OF "MR. X," POLICE AGENT, DIES OF BURNS. Touching a match to her garments, which she had soaked with alcohol, Mrs. Lillian Georgopoulos, 42, widow of the mysterious "Mr. X," who for many years acted as an under cover agent for the Chicago police, and whose death occurred last August, apparently committed suicide in the basement of her home at 108 South Hamilton avenue yesterday. She died of the burns at the Franklin boulevard hospital.

Mrs. Marion Withers, her niece, told the police that since the death of her husband, Mrs. Georgopoulos had been despondent, saying she could not live without him.

William Georgopoulos, who was prominent in the Greek colony in Chicago, was said to have amassed a fortune of $300,000 for his services to the police, particularly in connection with crimes in which Greeks were involved. Not until his death the identity of the "Mr. X" of whom even the sidewalk who voted the appropriation for his salary knew nothing, was revealed.

ENEMY ATTACKS MANILA; YANKS STAND AT PASS. 6,000 Try to Defeat Invader. BY WALTER WILGUS. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.) MANILA, P. I., Jan. 22.—A decisive battle for the control of Manila is being fought as if it was real war today by 6,000 troops of the Philippine division against "foreign invaders," simulated by small units of American troops, who theoretically landed at Batangas bay, south of Manila, and are marching toward the capital.

Airplanes are patrolling the entire Luzon coast from Lingayen and Pangasinan in the north to Lucena and Tayabas in the south to report the approach of foreign reinforcements. The maneuver, which began three days ago with the departure of the Twenty-sixth cavalry and numerous aircraft units from Fort McKinley, has now entered the decisive phase.

The results of today's battle are to determine the practicability of defending Manila under the conditions assumed. The defenders are holding the so-called Laguna pass, which is a narrow strip of land resembling the neck of a bottle, lying between Lake Laguna and Lake Taal.

The problem is technically described as fighting a rear guard action from the neighborhood of Batangas bay to

ENEMY ATTACKS MANILA; YANKS STAND AT PASS

6,000 Try to Defeat Invader.

BY WALTER WILGUS. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.) MANILA, P. I., Jan. 22.—A decisive battle for the control of Manila is being fought as if it was real war today by 6,000 troops of the Philippine division against "foreign invaders," simulated by small units of American troops, who theoretically landed at Batangas bay, south of Manila, and are marching toward the capital.

Airplanes are patrolling the entire Luzon coast from Lingayen and Pangasinan in the north to Lucena and Tayabas in the south to report the approach of foreign reinforcements. The maneuver, which began three days ago with the departure of the Twenty-sixth cavalry and numerous aircraft units from Fort McKinley, has now entered the decisive phase.

The results of today's battle are to determine the practicability of defending Manila under the conditions assumed. The defenders are holding the so-called Laguna pass, which is a narrow strip of land resembling the neck of a bottle, lying between Lake Laguna and Lake Taal.

The problem is technically described as fighting a rear guard action from the neighborhood of Batangas bay to Laguna pass, where the decision, under war conditions, would be rendered. The terrain where the problem is being worked out is diversified, being open but cut up with ravines and having many places covered to an almost impenetrable degree with vegetation.

The troops are considerably fatigued, with numerous cases of heat prostration and minor casualties, but their conduct in coordinating the maneuvers to date is described as excellent.

Maj. Gen. William Weigel is commanding the division and Maj. Gen. James H. McRae, depot commander, is in supreme command of all branches of the service represented, including the motorized anti-aircraft batteries, two regiments of Philippine scouts and infantry, and one regiment of native cavalry.

AIDS CATTLEMEN, GUARDS FORESTS, JARDINE AVERS. Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, in Chicago yesterday, asserted that his department is working out a legislative program to permit western stockmen increased grazing privileges and at the same time conserve the national forest.

The American Society of Landscape Architects, in annual convention in the Hotel Sherman, had just passed resolutions condemning the stockmen's campaign, which it was alleged would give them permanent control of large tracts of government land.

Secretary Jardine indicated that he felt the architects were unduly alarmed. He had heard nothing of the proposed legislation they complained about, he added.

ENEMY ATTACKS MANILA; YANKS STAND AT PASS

6,000 Try to Defeat Invader.

BY WALTER WILGUS. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.) MANILA, P. I., Jan. 22.—A decisive battle for the control of Manila is being fought as if it was real war today by 6,000 troops of the Philippine division against "foreign invaders," simulated by small units of American troops, who theoretically landed at Batangas bay, south of Manila, and are marching toward the capital.

Airplanes are patrolling the entire Luzon coast from Lingayen and Pangasinan in the north to Lucena and Tayabas in the south to report the approach of foreign reinforcements. The maneuver, which began three days ago with the departure of the Twenty-sixth cavalry and numerous aircraft units from Fort McKinley, has now entered the decisive phase.

The results of today's battle are to determine the practicability of defending Manila under the conditions assumed. The defenders are holding the so-called Laguna pass, which is a narrow strip of land resembling the neck of a bottle, lying between Lake Laguna and Lake Taal.

The problem is technically described as fighting a rear guard action from the neighborhood of Batangas bay to Laguna pass, where the decision, under war conditions, would be rendered. The terrain where the problem is being worked out is diversified, being open but cut up with ravines and having many places covered to an almost impenetrable degree with vegetation.

The troops are considerably fatigued, with numerous cases of heat prostration and minor casualties, but their conduct in coordinating the maneuvers to date is described as excellent.

Maj. Gen. William Weigel is commanding the division and Maj. Gen. James H. McRae, depot commander, is in supreme command of all branches of the service represented, including the motorized anti-aircraft batteries, two regiments of Philippine scouts and infantry, and one regiment of native cavalry.

AIDS CATTLEMEN, GUARDS FORESTS, JARDINE AVERS. Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, in Chicago yesterday, asserted that his department is working out a legislative program to permit western stockmen increased grazing privileges and at the same time conserve the national forest.

The American Society of Landscape Architects, in annual convention in the Hotel Sherman, had just passed resolutions condemning the stockmen's campaign, which it was alleged would give them permanent control of large tracts of government land.

Secretary Jardine indicated that he felt the architects were unduly alarmed. He had heard nothing of the proposed legislation they complained about, he added.

ENEMY ATTACKS MANILA; YANKS STAND AT PASS

6,000 Try to Defeat Invader.

BY WALTER WILGUS. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.) MANILA, P. I., Jan. 22.—A decisive battle for the control of Manila is being fought as if it was real war today by 6,000 troops of the Philippine division against "foreign invaders," simulated by small units of American troops, who theoretically landed at Batangas bay, south of Manila, and are marching toward the capital.

Airplanes are patrolling the entire Luzon coast from Lingayen and Pangasinan in the north to Lucena and Tayabas in the south to report the approach of foreign reinforcements. The maneuver, which began three days ago with the departure of the Twenty-sixth cavalry and numerous aircraft units from Fort McKinley, has now entered the decisive phase.

The results of today's battle are to determine the practicability of defending Manila under the conditions assumed. The defenders are holding the so-called Laguna pass, which is a narrow strip of land resembling the neck of a bottle, lying between Lake Laguna and Lake Taal.

The problem is technically described as fighting a rear guard action from the neighborhood of Batangas bay to Laguna pass, where the decision, under war conditions, would be rendered. The terrain where the problem is being worked out is diversified, being open but cut up with ravines and having many places covered to an almost impenetrable degree with vegetation.

The troops are considerably fatigued, with numerous cases of heat prostration and minor casualties, but their conduct in coordinating the maneuvers to date is described as excellent.

Maj. Gen. William Weigel is commanding the division and Maj. Gen. James H. McRae, depot commander, is in supreme command of all branches of the service represented, including the motorized anti-aircraft batteries, two regiments of Philippine scouts and infantry, and one regiment of native cavalry.

AIDS CATTLEMEN, GUARDS FORESTS, JARDINE AVERS. Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, in Chicago yesterday, asserted that his department is working out a legislative program to permit western stockmen increased grazing privileges and at the same time conserve the national forest.

The American Society of Landscape Architects, in annual convention in the Hotel Sherman, had just passed resolutions condemning the stockmen's campaign, which it was alleged would give them permanent control of large tracts of government land.

Secretary Jardine indicated that he felt the architects were unduly alarmed. He had heard nothing of the proposed legislation they complained about, he added.

DON'T FORCE RAIL CONSOLIDATIONS, EXPERT ADVISES

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—(Special.)—A "stop, look and listen" sign was figuratively held up before the senate interstate commerce committee today by Joseph B. Eastman, chairman of the interstate commerce commission, in testifying on proposed railroad consolidation legislation.

Consolidation of the lines into a limited number of systems should be approached with caution, Chairman Eastman said. The commission's bill, which would give the commission broad power to approve or disapprove proposed voluntary consolidations, without reference to a general plan and without limitation as to the time in which consolidations may be proposed, was submitted for the committee's consideration.

"We have an impression," Chairman Eastman said, "that there has been a tendency to exaggerate the possible economies and other advantages of great consolidations. Economy and efficiency of operation are much more than a matter of size."

"We do not wish it to be understood that we see no probable advantages or benefits in the further consolidation or unification of railroad properties. On the contrary, we are firmly persuaded that such consolidations or unifications may often be most desirable. We do not believe, however, that any one now knows how far the process may be carried with advantage or, indeed, without positive disadvantage."

Sale of 1000 of the favorite clocks Big Ben and Baby Ben —made by Westclox Company

2.65 each

Alarm clocks that can be trusted to keep accurate time and to ring on the moment set for the alarm. Only a special purchase allows this unusually low price.

Just 1000 clocks are offered in this event and this price will prevail only while this quantity lasts. Good-looking in design and materials as well as extremely useful.

"Kislov" washable doeskin Slipon gloves, 3.75

Direct from France comes a fresh shipment of the favored "Slipon" gloves of soft, durable doeskin.

They emerge from the washing soft and pliable. Made in "P. K. style and finished with picot edges. Sizes 5 1/4 to 7 1/2, in butter, white, mode, mastic, cocoa and beaver.

January sale of fur coats

Every fur garment greatly reduced

Hudson seal (dyed muskrat) coats, $295

Selected pelts fashion luxuriously soft coats, effectively trimmed with silverstone or Havana brown fitch collars and band cuffs.

Smart flare models also available. 42 to 45-inch lengths.

Silver muskrat coats, $235

Natural red fox collar and deep border lend richness to these lustrous coats.

Smart, youthful styles make them especially desirable. Distinctively plain crepe de chine linings, velvet borders. 42 to 45-inch lengths.

All neck pieces appreciably reduced. Fur department, 5th floor, Webster.

Mandel Brothers

Remarkable values in a special offer—Silver plated ware

Specially priced 6.95

Your choice of: Heavy nickel silver base is finished with a heavy plate of pure silver. In a platinum finish with a raised thread border.

Vegetable dish—with side handles and a cover—13-inch chop dish—gravy boat and separate tray—15-inch platter—in wall and tree design. All pieces match, so the bride or the home furnisher may form an artistic table service of larger pieces. First floor, Webster.

Mandel Brothers—"famous for silks"

New springtime printed silks, 2.45 and 2.95

Crepe de chine, georgette, chiffons, in duo, triple, and multi-colors. Their refreshing novelty includes unusual assortments in small, medium, and large designs—all-over patterns—modern art designs—monotone colors for morning, afternoon, and evening.

Silk specials—for Saturday, 2.85 yard

40-inch all-silk—flat crepes—satin crepes—crepe marinette. In springtime, medium and dark shades, for boudoir apparel, negligees, daytime and evening dresses. Flat crepes and crepe marinette are reversible and most in demand for frocks using self material as trimming.

40-in. black satin charmeuse, 1.95 yard

Much in demand for street, afternoon, and evening wear. Exceptionally soft texture is this rich black satin. Special for Saturday's selling.

Silk service hose

With French lace clocks. Reduced one-third 1.45 Full fashioned

For this sale event we have made this special purchase of medium weight service hose from one of America's foremost hosiery manufacturers. Re-enforced feet and tops of hile afford strength where it is most needed. Available in all the season's most favored shades. First floor, Webb.

Short lines in Subdeb and Wiggletoe shoes

Specially priced 2.85

High and low shoes. Many styles offered include: patent leather strap slippers; dull calf skin oxfords, and gray elkskin lace shoes with black trimming.

Patent leather Arch Aid two-strap slippers have welt soles and snug-fitting heels. 6.50.

Not all sizes available in every style. Fifth floor.

Special selling Boys' two long trouser suits

21.75. Smart patterns in accord with latest style trends. Sizes 13 to 18.

Boys' overcoats. Broken lots and sizes 10.75. Sizes 2 1/2 to 18.

Jersey suits. Sizes 2 1/2, 3, and 4 only 1.95. Less than half usual price because these suits are broken lots from our regular stock. Good news for mothers of smaller tots. Second floor, Webster.

Becoming flower-tints in The newest hats of felt

$5

Versatile in use is the snug felt hat, sponsored by fashion for spring.

With an air of delightful smartness in new shades and perky shapes the felt hat retains its remarkable favor for all smart occasions and climes.

Hand tucks, ribbons and self trims add to their decided chic. Large and small head sizes. Fifth floor, State.

In the Misses' Frock Shop: Smart colorful frocks feature the gay hues of a stylist's palette

Colors begin with dainty petal tints and graduate to bright futuristic shades. $50

A predominating mode of the new season is for frocks to adopt tropical colors that lend Southern glamour to downtown shopping days which terminate in bridge or matinee.

Tinsel embroiders collar, cuffs, and pockets of the cocoa colored Canton two-piece frock at left. The skirt of the two-piece georgette frock at right swirls in circular fullness in front to contrast with its flat, straightline back. Fourth floor, State.

Small children's coats greatly reduced $5 to 16.50

Smart tailored models of all-wool materials. Some fur trimmed. Raglan or set-in sleeves. Not all sizes in every style. Sizes 2 to 6 years. Small children's hats reduced to.... $1 to 3.95. Third floor, Webster.

SECTION SPOR MARK WANT

RAC CHICAGO HAP AS ARMY-NA GAME IS LAN

Ready to Impr Stadium.

(Pictures on back page) Announcement yesterday t Army-Navy football game of to be played in Chicago was with great enthusiasm here hearing of the good news, city agreed that in order to make a success in Chicago, much had done at Soldiers' field to fit occasion. In the first place must be at least 80,000 seats there must be a properly equipped gridiron. Last fall at the Northern-Michigan game the field was quagmire because of improper drainage.

Responsibility for a field in condition and for a seating capacity of 80,000 is placed on the shoulders of the city, south park commissioners, an absence yesterday of President Commissioner Michael Igoe at there was absolutely no doubt field and stands would be ready to requirements.

Ready to Start Work. "Work on the construction new sections of the stand at building the field has been at ready," said Commissioner Igoe engineers have gone over the plan. When it is finished there over 80,000 seats and there football field as good as can be. Expressions of appreciation (busman came from Mayor D from army and navy department section when it was made known Chicago was to have the game Dever said:

"I know I speak the opinion people of Chicago when I say, greatly the fine crowd to Chicago by the President the army and navy department guarding the game to Chicago sure the people of Chicago will their appreciation in a definite Service Men Happy."

"I am extremely happy to see Capt. John S. Hines, commandant at Great Lakes Naval Training "It should be a great day services and for the middle "I am delighted; it will be a great thing for the army and navy for national defense," said William S. Graves, commandant sixth corps area. "The people should have a chance to see it from the two service schools. These men pointed out that a Navy game is by far the great spectacle of all gridiron classics, of its military aspect and display of gold braid.

Before the game the West in their uniforms of gray and blue in their suits of blue with to the field and around the field sections of the stand reserved for the Army men will be on one the Navy on the other.

The Mule and the Goat. Then here will be the famous mule and the Navy goat. In this annual classic, in the built along the side line will high up in the army and navy army band from West Point the cadets and the Navy be Annapolis will lead the middle will give a marching show sun cago never has seen.

EAST IS SURPRISE

New York, Jan. 22.—(Special) section of Chicago as the elite Army-Navy football game of as a surprise to the military and set along the Atlantic seaboard seemed to the easterners a foregone conclusion that it States Naval academy, which choice of a field this year, was either Philadelphia or Baltimore 1924, the last time the navy had the right to name the selected Baltimore. In 19 named Philadelphia.

Chicago will be the seventh stage this Army-Navy classic long history. When the games first started playing games alternated between West and Annapolis. As the attraction it was shifted to Philadelphia long run, with the exception year, when the game was Princeton.

The navy won three years at Philadelphia and the army haps feeling that the Quaker a linx, entered into a new and shifted the game to New where it became a fixture by that year it was the Navy choose the place for the co the Annapolis officials took Philadelphia. Last year the chose New York.

The selection of Chicago the agreement now existing the two academies. The agreement entered into by the of West Point and Annapolis only that the game York and no farther north more. There was no limit far west it should be played the military academy must earn this year. Before this is played a new agreement

BOOZE, PAID MEN DANCERS PERIL WOMEN'S CLUB

What'll We Do? Fair
Yanks of Paris Say.

BY HENRY WALES.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
(Copyright, 1926, by The Chicago Tribune.)
PARIS, Jan. 22.—The American Women's club, one of the most exclusive organizations in the colony here, has split on whether or not to continue to serve cocktails on Sunday and whether they should engage professional dancers for the Saturday night.

Mrs. Laurence Vincent Benet, Mrs. E. Berry Wall, Mrs. Harry Lehr, Mrs. Paul Depuy, Mrs. H. Leroux, Mrs. Hoover Hanger, Mrs. Charles Prince, Mrs. Sheldon Whitehouse, Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, Mrs. Parmelee Herick and Mrs. Robert P. Skinner are some of the socially prominent leaders of the organization who are intensely interested in the result of the conflict.

Too Much Giddiness.
Mrs. Joseph Wilson Cochran, whose husband is pastor of the American church, is one of the leaders in the movement against the cocktails and professional men dancing partners, contending that the club is slipping from its original humanitarian and educational aims and is inclining too much toward the giddy Paris atmosphere.

The president, Mrs. Albert M. Connett Jr., and Mrs. Henry Conkling are understood to support the liberal faction, insisting that social affairs are of prime importance in building up international good will and cooperation.

Here's Another View.
One of the most prominent members of the club told THE TRIBUNE today: "If the good ladies believed in prohibition, it might be sensible to agitate against the cocktail. However, they don't really oppose, but merely wish to bar the serving of drinks on Sunday. Regarding dancing on Sunday, I believe that is just a matter of personal taste. This Paris is the place for a fanatical minority to be bailing restrictions. Professional dancers are recognized in every first class hotel, restaurant, and cabaret."

"It is not so much the club women's daughters who will be lured to patronize the professional dancers, but the older and plumper ladies will be delighted at the chance of being wheeled around the floor by some handsome young chap, even if it is necessary to pay him for his effort."

Thus far cocktails, wine, whisky, and champagne have been served freely in the dining rooms of the club's handsome building in the Rue Boissiere near Place Victor Hugo.

RAID GOLD COAST
CHAUFFEURS' DICE GAME; ARREST 20

A number of gold coast residents who were in the loop yesterday afternoon were delayed on their homeward journey when police raided the Tower garage, 218 East Chicago avenue, and arrested a score of their chauffeurs on charges of gambling.

Drivers were bent over a table on the third floor of the building, absorbed in a dice game, when Lieut. William Blinn entered with a squad from the Chicago office. Many were employed by wealthy people.

Among those arrested were Timothy Hawkins, 946 Orleans street, chauffeur for J. Russell Forgan, and Charles Harvey, 3755 Rockwell street, chauffeur for J. A. Mitchell, 1550 North State street.

RESORTS—FOREIGN Ocean Travel.

Havana
New Orleans
GAY HAVANA!
Rivers' freedom and charm less than two days from New Orleans. World famous race track and casino. Jalisco, golf on an ideal course, alluring boulevards and cafes.

Sailings
Comfortably appointed fast SS. MUNAMAR sails Saturdays from New Orleans Sundays from Havana

MUNSON STEAMSHIP LINES
211 West Washington St.
Chicago, Illinois

NEW ZEALAND AUSTRALIA
Canadian-Australian Royal Mail Line

VIA HONOLULU AND SUVA (Fiji) 183
Sail from New York
SUNDAY (Jan. 24) 10:00 a.m.
Sail from New York
TUESDAY (Jan. 26) 10:00 a.m.

Union Line of New Zealand
Sail from New York
SUNDAY (Jan. 24) 10:00 a.m.
Sail from New York
TUESDAY (Jan. 26) 10:00 a.m.

RESORTS AND HOTELS
EAST COAST OF FLORIDA
Sail from New York
SUNDAY (Jan. 24) 10:00 a.m.
Sail from New York
TUESDAY (Jan. 26) 10:00 a.m.

RESORTS AND HOTELS
Sail from New York
SUNDAY (Jan. 24) 10:00 a.m.
Sail from New York
TUESDAY (Jan. 26) 10:00 a.m.

Notes of the Nation's Capital

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—Government activities in the capital today were reported by the Associated Press as follows:

CONGRESS.
A fund of $250,000 with which to pay indemnity for cattle slaughtered in fighting tuberculosis in cattle was asked of congress by President Coolidge. Money apportioned to many states for the purpose, he said, has been exhausted.

Col. William Mitchell can testify if he wants to before congressional committees' despite his court martial sentence of suspension from the army in the opinion of Maj. Gen. John A. Hull, judge advocate general of the army.

Investigation of the effects of the British rubber monopoly on American economic life was ended by the house commerce committee. The last witnesses, Secretary of War Davis, who, in closed session, told of the problem from the standpoint of national defense. The committee next will take up the investigation of other foreign monopolies, such as coffee, nitrates and steel.

MISCELLANEOUS.
Direct action that the United States will not recognize the Chamorro regime in Nicaragua has been served on Salvador Castro, the Nicaraguan minister. He was informed that, with Chamorro's unconstitutional usurpation of power, the usual diplomatic relations between the United States and Nicaragua had ceased.

Public protest against the disturbance to radio broadcast reception occasioned by naval wireless station operation has grown so serious, Secretary Hoover has

MINE OPERATORS BALK AT PEACE TERMS OF EDITOR

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Another effort to end the long drawn out coal strike was shattered today.

This time it was the anthracite operators who refused to go along after the mine workers had consented to go into another conference. The new plan was offered by the Scranton Times. The invitation of the newspaper to Maj. W. W. Inglis, chairman of the operators' negotiating committee, to comment on the proposition, brought a response from him which was construed by mine workers and others as favorable to the renewal of negotiations.

The statement given out by the press representative of the operators to counteract the false report was as follows: "Regarding reports that the anthracite operators had accepted a strike settlement plan proposed by E. J. Lynett of the Scranton Times, the Philadelphia office of the anthracite operators' conference, states that Mr. Lynett's plan did not meet any requirements of the situation and had not been accepted by Mr. Inglis or the operators."

H. M. DAUGHTERY SUBMITS TO QUIZ AND AVOIDS JAIL

New York, Jan. 22.—(Special.)—Harry M. Daugherty, United States attorney general, today submitted to a quiz by Judge Thacher in United States District court today.

He was cited for contempt when he refused to answer grand jury questions and produce records in an investigation of the return of securities of the American Metal company to alleged German owners.

United States Attorney Buckner told the former attorney general he must either answer the questions or take the consequences, but permitted Daugherty to send a hurry call for Max D. Steuer, noted criminal lawyer. With Steuer's arrival, the three went before Judge Thacher, who asked for the grand jury minutes. After reading them, the court directed Daugherty to either return to the grand jury room and reply to the questions or suffer a citation for contempt. Mr. Daugherty decided to testify, and the contempt proceedings were dropped.

RESORTS AND HOTELS
Ocean Travel.

Florida Trips
$119.00
Covers all expenses for 8 Day De Luxe round trip to South Florida

It Includes:
Pullman Sleeper, Meals en route, Bus Trips to Coast and Scenic Highlands and first class hotel accommodations, American plan.

Make reservations now for parties leaving Jan. 30th and Feb. 13th. Dates for later trips on request.

W. E. ANDERSON
812 Hartford Bldg.
Randolph 7852.

Visitors to Tampa, Florida, the guests service of this Bureau in its effort to make hotel or boarding house reservations in advance of the visitors' arrival. Write the Bureau stating your desires.

INFORMATION BUREAU
TAMPA BEACH BUILDING
TAMPA, FLORIDA

For your next vacation, travel to the beautiful Gulf Coast of Florida. The Florida East Coast Railway, the only line to the Gulf Coast, offers you the most comfortable and convenient service.

THE WHITE HOUSE, Biloxi, Miss.
A modern resort hotel, facing the Gulf of Mexico, with a beautiful beach, swimming pool, tennis courts, and other amusements.

BILOXI, MISS.
A modern resort hotel, facing the Gulf of Mexico, with a beautiful beach, swimming pool, tennis courts, and other amusements.

GOVERNMENT STEAMSHIP LINES
Sail from New York
SUNDAY (Jan. 24) 10:00 a.m.
Sail from New York
TUESDAY (Jan. 26) 10:00 a.m.

MAN WHO SHOT UP NORTH SHORE TRAIN GETS LIFE

Racine, Wis., Jan. 22.—(Special.)—Richard Rogahn, 27, confessed killer, was sentenced to life imprisonment at the state penitentiary at Waupun by Judge Belden in Circuit court this morning when he pleaded guilty to the murder of Stanley Packmore on Nov. 12.

Rogahn first pleaded not guilty, but changed his plea to guilty on request of his relatives. He will be taken to Waupun tomorrow morning.

Rogahn was captured here Tuesday night after he had fired a revolver into two Chicago and North Shore trains, seriously wounding a Chicago mail-revolver and dynamite caps were found on his person and he confessed to the dynamiting of the North Side lunch car on Nov. 12, in which Stanley Packmore, waiter, was killed. It was on this charge that he was sentenced.

KILLED BY RAILROAD TRAIN.
Joseph Brander, 9004 Bury avenue, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a Pullman train at Stony Island avenue and 44th street.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

"Where there is no vision, the people cast off restraint; but he that keepeth the law happy is he."—Proverbs, XXXIX-18.
DR. C. COPELAND SMITH, Minister,
Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, N. La Salle and Locust Sts.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.
CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST.
SUNDAY, JAN. 24.
"TRUTH."
Sunday, 10:45 a. m.

WEDNESDAY, 8 p. m.
FIRST CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.
SECOND CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.

THIRD CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.
FOURTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.

FIFTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.
SIXTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.

SUNDAY, 10:45 a. m.
SEVENTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.
EIGHTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.

NINTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.
TENTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.

ELEVENTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.
TWELFTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.

THIRTEENTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.
FOURTEENTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.

FIFTEENTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.
SIXTEENTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.

SUNDAY, 10:45 a. m.
SEVENTEENTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.
EIGHTEENTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.

NINETEENTH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.
TWENTIETH CHURCH, 1007 West Madison, Reading room, 3030 Dearborn-bldg.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURES
By Members of the Board of Lectureship.
REV. MARY K. BROWN, D. D.,
SUNDAY, 11 a. m., 12:30 p. m., 8 p. m.
REV. MARY K. BROWN, D. D.,
SUNDAY, 11 a. m., 12:30 p. m., 8 p. m.

PRESBYTERIAN.
SECOND
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
1938 S. Michigan-av.
Services 11 and 7:45 P. M.
DR. JAMES G. K. McCLURE
preaching Quartet Music.

CHURCH OF THE COVENANT.
S. E. cor. Belmont and N. Halsted-st.
CHRISTIANITY FOR HUMANITY.
"THE QUESTION OF FAITH AND LOSS."
Rev. E. A. Black, D. D., of Lawrence, Kas.
A COMING WELCOME.

EDGEWATER
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Bryn Mawr and Kenmore-avs.
The Rev. Asa J. Ferry, D. D., MINISTER.
12:15 Musical.
10:30-12:00-Service: "A Church for the New Year."
7:45 p. m.—"Blessed Assurance."

THIRD
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Founded in 1847.
Ashland-bldg. and Ogden-av., Dr. Madison-st.
REV. MARY K. BROWN, D. D.,
NOTED EVANGELIST.
10:30 a. m.—"The Church of the Future."
7:45 p. m.—"The Church of the Future."

LECTURES AND DEBATES.
CHICAGO FORUM.
Olympic Theater,
Randolph and Clark.
Sunday 8 o'clock
Joseph Schlossberg,
Secy-Treas. Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.
Will speak on "An Immigrant's Americanism."

QUESTIONS FROM AUDIENCE.
DR. RANDOLPH STONE.
The truth about reincarnation, past and present, migration, purgatory. Come and hear this unique and interesting presentation. Help to grow and understand your own religious belief.
Sunday, Jan. 24, 8 p. m.
Morrison Hotel, Park 5, 521 N. Dearborn-st.

Church-School of Self-Help
AT MORRISON HOTEL.
Friday 8:30 p. m. 7:30 p. m.
SUNDAY SCHOOL.
REV. AND MRS. J. H. KEELER, 216 Alexandria Hotel, INTERVIEW FREE.

MYNIE SCIENCE.
CHURCH OF THE LIVING CHRIST.
THE BLACKSTONE HOTEL.
ENGLISH ROOM.
REV. ALICE R. FITCHIE
Service—11 a. m.: Sunday school.
"Our Mental Plant."
Wednesday activities, 1715 Strand Bldg.
All other meetings daily at 12:15.

LUTHERAN.
WICKER PARK LUTHERAN
ALL ROADS LEAD TO WICKER PARK.
Take auto, surface, or elevated to Hoyne-av. and Le Moyne-av.
10 a. m.—The Seventh Commandment.
Rev. S. P. Long, D. D., Pastor.

THE NEW FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.
Corner Washington-Ashland-bldgs.
Rev. H. M. Johnson, D. D., Pastor.
10:30 a. m.—The Bible Within the Bible.
Rev. G. L. ROBINSON, D. D., Preaching.

SATURDAY EVENING AMERICAN with all SUNDAY FEATURES including the American Home Journal

THIS WEEK...

The Zanetti Mystery A Super Crime Unraveled by the Magic Master Houdini

BOOZE BON BON
BROADWAY'S NEWEST WRINKLE

How raids on "Candy Moonshiners" revealed the secret of "getting tight" on invisible brandy.

HOW HER JUNGLE BRAINS MADE HER A HELPLESS LOVE SLAVE

And why science says all of us exchange "Jungle Thoughts" without knowing it.

BEHIND THE VEILS AND WALLS OF THE WILD ORIENT TODAY

An American adventurer who penetrated into the very heart of the mysterious Orient relates his thrilling experiences among many Asiatic tribes.

Are YOU One of Love's Quitters?
Marriage is no job for a quitter or one who sees life only in terms of tinsel and glittering gaieties.

ALSO—FOUR PAGES COLORED COMICS

SATURDAY
Chicago Evening American

PUBLIC UTILITIES HERE TO EXPEND 30 MILLION

BY O. A. MATHER

Three of Chicago's big public utilities yesterday plans to expend $30,000,000 their facilities to keep pace with the growth of the city and its suburbs. The Commonwealth Edison company, one of the largest power companies in the world, with $400,000,000 in assets, will use the proceeds to be used with superpower plants to create a vast power pool in the west. The interest rate on the bonds will set a new record for the lowest coupon rate on any company's bonds has been reached. A consolidated utility financing. This is the trend of the investment.

Gas Company to increase the Peoples Gas Light and Heat company, which has been planning to increase its authorized stock from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. The increase, together with the stock of the Chicago Gas Company, will be voted on by the stockholders at the Feb. 16. A new extension is being made by the Chicago Rapid Transit company, which operates the elevated lines.

Evidence of continued activity in the stock market was contained in the week-end reviews. It is emphasized that the market is in a state of "bullishness" and that the price of stock is running higher than when all January began.

Marshall Field & Co. may rent wholesale distribution of a considerable amount of goods exceeded a year ago by a general sales showed substantial increase over last week but the total record a year ago says, "not only is the stable business maintained but accumulating signs of recovery in different sections of the country are appearing as satisfactory and is better." The Creditors' Bureau reports an increase of 5.8 per cent in the number of bankruptcies.

Colonial Steel and Wire Corporation news was checked. The Colonial Steel and Wire Company declared a 100 per cent stock dividend, which will increase its stock from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000. The Best-City increased its annual rate by 10 per cent, from $1.00 to $1.10. The Great Lakes Transit company declared a dividend of $3 on the last dividend of $2 on the year ago.

The National Power and Light company declared an initial dividend of 10 cents on common stock, which was split on a one basis. Stockholders of the United States Steel company voted to change the stock from 40,000 shares to 200,000 no par shares and five new shares for each share.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE
Money in Chicago firm at 4 1/2 per cent. Commercial paper, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank deposits, 4 1/2 per cent. Chicago bank deposits, 4 1/2 per cent. Chicago bank deposits, 4 1/2 per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE
London, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE
London, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE
London, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE
London, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE
London, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE
London, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE
London, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Prime rate, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of England, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of France, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Germany, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Italy, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of Japan, 4 1/2 per cent. Bank of the United States, 4 1/2 per cent.

HUGS AND CA IN LIGHT SUPP

CHICAGO LIVE STO

[illegible]

One month ago
One year ago
CATTLE—Bulk of beef steers
One month ago
One year ago
SHEEP—Western range lambs
Yesterday
One month ago
One year ago

With hog receipts yards below expectations and less as large as the average for a year and two years ago, but advanced ably by the market and demand proposition. Sliders took 15,000 of the 25,000 or more than twice the amount out of the market. The advanced 15¢50c, compared different angles of the Thursday. The general average moved $12.10, being advanced by the market to limited offerings but chased indifferently, while carried over quite a number was $12.90 for 175 lb. Quality good.

Despite the fact that cash at 1,000 were second smallest more than two years ago, still evident in the market as decline of 25¢00. Quality accounted for the low. A lot of choices 1,104 lb. at $10.35, with $10.00 the price. Few passed $9.50, a number of steers of beef merit $2.00. Butcher stock and cutters held steady, although grades of cows and heifers vary. Bulls steady to somewhat 50c. Stockers and feeders steady.

Lamb Declines Checked

Drastic declines in lamb checked due to continued light arrivals first five days of the month compared with $9.244 last year. Yearlings met urgent demand spots showed slight advance lb, averages bringing $13.35 weights, $1.75. Matured stock and generally steady, ch weight ewes selling down with 150 lb. averages at $3 tremely heavy down to $7.00.

Available brought Freshly shorn lambs brought $12.00, with 105 to $12.00.

Receipts at Chicago for tod thirt at 500 cattle, 4,000 1,000 sheep, against 347 cattle and 6,727 sheep, the correspond urday a year ago.

The weekly receipts of hogs for next Monday are estimated 000 to 70,000, G. M. Nicoll m
000, R. Ellis and J. T. Brown
N. Burrows 14,000, C. South
J. M. Waters and F. W. Wa
George Chandler 60,000, W. A
000 and A. E. Welhoner 70,0

Yesterday's Hog Parade

Hog purchases yesterday packers, including directors, Arms & Co., 2,500; Miller &
Swift & Co., 300; Brennan
Hammond Co., 800; Arap. P.
Morgan, 1,000; J. M. Nicoll,
Wilson & Co., 1,500; Shippers
Southwestern, 1,000; and Western Pk. Co. 2,000. Total
Roberts & Oaks 1,500. Left over

POULTRY MARKET

Butter markets showed a fir with prices here and at Boston Boston was fairly firm, with storage standards for January o here at 42¢43¢¼c, with 61 c at 42¢43¢¼c, and 59¢ at New 43½c. Cheese in fair demand little changed.

Fresh eggs advanced 1c, cold v factor. Receipts, 8,729 case 50 and 100,000, with 100,000 made at 39¢40¢3c, and 102 c at 39¢40¢3c.

Live old hens and spring chick and grease l. Receipts.

1,530
coups.

Extremely low temperatures resulting in the potato market few sales were made. Receipts with 254 cars on track today.

WHOLESALE CEREALRY BUT-
Chicago

Whole	Cen-	New
mill.	traded.	York
92 score.....	46
91 score.....	45
91 score.....	43 1/2
91 score.....	43	44 1/2
91 score.....	41 1/2	43 1/2
91 score.....	41	41 1/2
91 score.....	40 1/2	41 1/2
91 score.....	39 1/2	40 1/2

BUTTER PRICES TO CHICAGO

Score	45b.	Price
Best 193-94	14 1/2-16 1/2	47 -
Good 193-94	14 -	46 -

WHOLESALE CHEESE
*Wis-
Chicago, contin. New Y
Flats 23%
Twins 23% 24%
8 Dais

D. Dais.	24%	24%	25%
D. Dais.	23%	24%	25%
Y. Ams.	26%
Lehna.	..35	24%

*Previous day.

POULTRY.
Turkeys	35c
Hens, heavy	26 1/4c
Spring	28c
	Geese
	Rooster
	Ducks
	Wags

Fresh eggs 36 1/2c | Dirties
 Misc. fruits 34 1/2c | Checks
 Extras (city cand. for ret. trad.
 GREEN FRUITS
 Apples, bris
 Cranberries

Grapefruit, cases
Lemons, box
Oranges, box
Pineapples, crate
POTATOES.
White,
Red, Yellow,
Purple,
Green,
Blue,
Black,
Brown,
Grey,
White,
Red, Yellow,
Purple,
Green,
Blue,
Black,
Brown,
Grey,

Wisconsin, 100 lbs.
Minnesota
Sweet, bu
VEAL CARCASSES
50@55 lbs.....13c 80@130
70@80 lbs....14@15c 50@175

DRESSED MEAT
Yearlings, No. 1.
Ribs	30	28
Loin	38	40
Rounds	17	14½
Chucks	15	14

.....18 18

24 **

WANTED-MALE HELP.

Professionals and Trades.

Architect's Superintendent.

Location Chicago, experienced in general building construction, live, active, references and salary desired. Address P. M. 111, Chicago.

Architectural Draftsman, exp. on hotels and apt. bldgs., good salary, references, state qualifications. Address P. M. 111, Chicago.

Architectural Draftsman-Experienced, exp. on hotels and apt. bldgs., good salary, references, state qualifications. Room 1715, 180 N. La Salle.

ARTISTS.

FIRST CLASS MECHANICAL RETOUCHERS AND ENGRAVERS.

COLUMBIAN ENGRAVING CO., 647 S. WABASH.

ARTIST.

With knowledge of oil, paint, stencil process for transfer designs on silk screens, inquire Mr. J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

ARTIST-DECORATOR-ON NOVELTY FURNITURE.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

AUTOMATIC SCREW MACHINE OPERATOR.

Apply Employment Department.

EDISON ELECTRIC APPLIANCE CO., INC., 5660 W. Taylor-st.

AUTOMATIC SCREW MACHINE OPERATORS.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

BAKER.

Wanted to teach the elements of the trade in public schools. Must have at least a high school education, preferably a college degree. Good position for a young man. Address P. M. 111, Chicago.

BRICKLAYERS.

112th and Bishop-sts.

CHAUFFEURS-EXPERIENCED. WITH state and city license; can get up to 40% more for night work. Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

COOK-TO MANAGE KITCHEN IN CAFE.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

CORNERS.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

CUTTER AND DESIGNER-EXPERIENCED.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DENTIST-GOOD RELIABLE CONTRACTOR.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DETAILER-LAYOUT MAN. FOR STORE.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

DRAFTSMAN.

Apply to J. J. Gorman, 1111 N. Dearborn.

WANTED-MALE HELP.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

ASSOCIATION.

SALESMEN.

We Officially Opened Our

DEMPSTER TERMINAL

RIDGE SUBDIVISION

SUNDAY, JAN. 10TH.

Up to Yesterday We Sold

$687,820.00

Worth of Property in This

Subdivision Alone.

Both the salesmen and purchasers have made big money.

Why?

Because Our

DEMPSTER TERMINAL

RIDGE

property is located just a little over a block from the

DEMPSTER TERMINAL

and about two blocks from large apartment buildings

where people now live.

Salespeople cannot match

this opportunity.

Come in today and learn the reason why this property

sells so quickly.

GEORGE W. HIPPLE,

Director of Sales.

A. A. LEWIS REALTY

ASSOCIATION,

Rm. 809, 77 W. Washington.

FAST SELLING SUBDIVISION

IN NORTH CENTRAL

Attention: Salesmen and Sales-

women. $2,000,000 of choice $325

lots and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

WANTED-MALE HELP.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

ASSOCIATION.

SALESMEN.

We Officially Opened Our

DEMPSTER TERMINAL

RIDGE SUBDIVISION

SUNDAY, JAN. 10TH.

Up to Yesterday We Sold

$687,820.00

Worth of Property in This

Subdivision Alone.

Both the salesmen and purchasers have made big money.

Why?

Because Our

DEMPSTER TERMINAL

RIDGE

property is located just a little over a block from the

DEMPSTER TERMINAL

and about two blocks from large apartment buildings

where people now live.

Salespeople cannot match

this opportunity.

Come in today and learn the reason why this property

sells so quickly.

GEORGE W. HIPPLE,

Director of Sales.

A. A. LEWIS REALTY

ASSOCIATION,

Rm. 809, 77 W. Washington.

FAST SELLING SUBDIVISION

IN NORTH CENTRAL

Attention: Salesmen and Sales-

women. $2,000,000 of choice $325

lots and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

WANTED-MALE HELP.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

ASSOCIATION.

SALESMEN.

We Officially Opened Our

DEMPSTER TERMINAL

RIDGE SUBDIVISION

SUNDAY, JAN. 10TH.

Up to Yesterday We Sold

$687,820.00

Worth of Property in This

Subdivision Alone.

Both the salesmen and purchasers have made big money.

Why?

Because Our

DEMPSTER TERMINAL

RIDGE

property is located just a little over a block from the

DEMPSTER TERMINAL

and about two blocks from large apartment buildings

where people now live.

Salespeople cannot match

this opportunity.

Come in today and learn the reason why this property

sells so quickly.

GEORGE W. HIPPLE,

Director of Sales.

A. A. LEWIS REALTY

ASSOCIATION,

Rm. 809, 77 W. Washington.

FAST SELLING SUBDIVISION

IN NORTH CENTRAL

Attention: Salesmen and Sales-

women. $2,000,000 of choice $325

lots and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

WANTED-MALE HELP.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

ASSOCIATION.

SALESMEN.

We Officially Opened Our

DEMPSTER TERMINAL

RIDGE SUBDIVISION

SUNDAY, JAN. 10TH.

Up to Yesterday We Sold

$687,820.00

Worth of Property in This

Subdivision Alone.

Both the salesmen and purchasers have made big money.

Why?

Because Our

DEMPSTER TERMINAL

RIDGE

property is located just a little over a block from the

DEMPSTER TERMINAL

and about two blocks from large apartment buildings

where people now live.

Salespeople cannot match

this opportunity.

Come in today and learn the reason why this property

sells so quickly.

GEORGE W. HIPPLE,

Director of Sales.

A. A. LEWIS REALTY

ASSOCIATION,

Rm. 809, 77 W. Washington.

FAST SELLING SUBDIVISION

IN NORTH CENTRAL

Attention: Salesmen and Sales-

women. $2,000,000 of choice $325

lots and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

and 100 lots of choice $125

lots. $1,750 all adjoining L. St. No. 187

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

CENTRAL

SALE - IN THE NORTH CENTRAL and several other fine residence required.
TABLE A. ROS. Superior 4379
E. Michigan St.

SALE - CHOICE BUSINESS V-located near Canal St. 44 ft. wide on corner. WILKES & C.
101 or 103 E. Superior St.
Michigan St. Sup. 7333.

APARTMENTS-SOUTH SIDE.

OWNER WILL SELL
NEW 40 APT. BLDG. with 2 rms. all rented. 8000 Ma
L. C. transportation.
24 A. 24 A. all rented. 7205 Bennett-from 1.6
SUNDSTROM
1000 1/2
Hrds Park 9212

ENGLEWOOD 21 APT. and 5 rms. kitchenette apt. includes all rented; 2000 in basement, light airy rooms; bath, 2 closets, 2000.
$40,000. $5. price $100,000; $25,000.

THE BUILDERS REALTY CO.
South Shore 912

Will take back 1st mtge.: $10,000 cash
See Mr. Lynch.

SWANSON & HOUSE,
8 Cherry Island av. Dorchester 414

OWNER MUST SELL.

20 W. Wat-st. 15 lots. 4 and 6 r.
bath. $25,000 cash or terms. 7 days. See agent. Wm. J. Swanson
Renowned broker

$10,000 CASH

WILL TAKE WHOLE 16 FLAT.
Immediate buy on the south side. $11,000—$12,000. See agent.

Estate of Mrs. Lavinia M. Le Gall

FLAT FRAME, $3,500.

Good, light, bath, high beam;
central heat; high in fine condition;
all new plumbing, electric, gas, balcony, etc. Call Mr. E. J. O'Connell, owner, care 140 S. Dearborn-st.,
Chicago, Ill. 4-9000.

SOLD-BRICK 2-APT. AND GARAGE on N. LaSalle-st. near 1st St. Price $13,500; cash $3,500. K.
trade.

M. J. MAHONEY & CO.
HIGH CLASS APT. BLDG.
block on Vernon av. 5-6 rms.; and terrace. Both built and ready for occupancy. $10,000. Home 7718-S. 46th st. Phone 4-9000.

WOOD AVERN FLAT.
Call for price range; income $246 per month. Good location. In-line equity for bungalows or m

1st mtg. $20,000, 5 years, 8%; ov sacrifice equity: $12,000 cash, balance

[illegible]

SALE—2 APARTMENT, 6-6; H.
electric, gas; $4,500. Rep. 7055.

[illegible]

SALE—2 1/2 ROOM BRICK, 2 CAR gar; near Bryn Mawr and Clark; $500; cash $2,500, or will trade for also 5 and 8 room frame on corner

[illegible]

SALE—MODERN 2 FLAT, CHOICE location; splendid transportation; except

[illegible]

MOD. 2 FLT., 7-7 R
ht.; built by owner; 2 car brk.

Special 1926 BARGAIN

* * 27

[illegible]

Chicago to Get 1926 Army-Navy Football Game—Durkin Granted Further Time to Make His Plea

SOLDIERS' FIELD AS IT WILL LOOK WHEN ARMY AND NAVY FOOTBALL TEAMS PLAY THERE NOV. 27. The horseshoe section in the foreground, connecting the east and the west stands, is in course of construction, ground having been broken for the work on Oct. 27. The picture shows the stands as they will look when completed to accommodate 100,000 persons. (Story on page 1.)

DURKIN'S LEGAL WIFE QUESTIONED BY STATE. Mrs. Ruth Fiebeck Durkin, 20, 128 East 68th street, being examined by John Sbarbaro, assistant state's attorney. (TRIBUNE Photo.) (Story on page 1.)

GLAD DAUGHTER IS NOT DURKIN'S LEGAL WIFE. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Sullivan leaving for Cornell, Ill., last night after discovering slayer had deceived their child. (TRIBUNE Photo.) (Story on page 1.)

SOLDIERS' FIELD AS IT APPEARS BEFORE IMPROVEMENTS ARE MADE. This picture was taken looking south from the Field museum during military tournament last summer. The new stands will fill the gap in the rear. (Story on page 1.)

DURKIN GRANTED MORE TIME TO ENTER PLEAS TO MURDER CHARGES. (1) Harold Levy and (2) Joseph P. Savage, assistant state's attorneys; (3) Martin J. Durkin, (4) John F. Tyrrell, attorney for Durkin, in Judge Harry B. Miller's court. (TRIBUNE Photo.) (Story on page 1.)

ASSURE ARMY-NAVY GAME WILL BE PLAYED HERE. Representative Fred A. Britten, who made fight for Chicago (left), and Rear Admiral L. M. Nulton, who made decision in favor of city. (Story on page 1.)

FOILS PLOT. King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia, who escaped assassins. (Story on page 4.)

INFANT PROCLAIMED NEW CROWN PRINCE OF ROUMANIA. Michael, son of Prince Carol, who abdicated as heir to throne, being shown to the people. Miron Christea, the Roumanian patriarch, member of the regency council, is at the prince's side. (Pacific and Atlantic Photo.)

PRELIMINARY AND SEMI-FINAL HEATS IN THE BOYS' JUVENILE AND JUNIOR TRIBUNE SILVER SKATES DERBY RACES ON TODAY. The picture shows the Garfield park lagoon where the races will start at 1 o'clock this afternoon. There are 1,449 entries in the classes which race today. The finals in these classes and the senior events will be run off tomorrow. Cold weather and the work of the west park employees assure that the ice will be in almost perfect condition. (TRIBUNE Photo.) (Story on page 17.)

LOSES RIGHTS. Last picture made of Prince Carol before he abdicated. (Pacific and Atlantic Photo.)

FALLS DEAD. George M. Stadelman, Goodyear tire head, dies in Akron, O. (Story on page 14.)

KILLS HERSELF. Mrs. Lillian Georgopoulos sets fire to own clothing to die. (Story on page 18.)

DUKE GUEST HERE. Duke of Treviso, grandson of one of Napoleon's marshals. (Story on page 11.)

IRISH FREE STATE ENVOY VISITS COURTS. Chief Justice Timothy D. Hurley of Superior court (left) and Timothy Smiddy, Irish minister to United States. (TRIBUNE Photo.) (Story on page 11.)

7 CENTS PAY NO MORE

VOLUME LX

WORLD

BELGIUM BO AT BIER OF HERO CARDKing Lays Pl
Mercier Fun

BY JAY ALLEN
(Chicago Tribune From Brussels, Jan. 23.—Belgium tonight to bury her gallant and hero of the world's war, King Albert and Crown Prince Leopold are expected to attend the funeral of the late King.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the St. Michael's church, near the city hall. The body was taken there from the hospital where he died.